NOVELIST TO WRITE OF BARRACK CONDITIONS

Fannie Hurst, famous novelist and short story writer, today was on her second tour of inspection of mining camps in the Pittsburgh districts. She will study conditions in the barracks where striking miners' families are housed and in the mines themselves. Her stories of what she finds will appear exclusively in The Sun-Telegraph. This photograph was taken in the union barracks at Acmetonia as a mother tells Miss Hurst of privations the small children undergo.

'FOX' THREAT HERE BARED

ARREST ONE IN PLOT

"Torture worse than Hickman inflicted on the Parker girl," is the threat against his children in five letters sent Anthony Thomas, wealthy Italian of the Frankstown road, unless he gives up $5,000. The letters were received by Thomas within the past few days. They were signed the "13 Men from Brushton."

Early today, Lawrence Grassi, cab driver of 1048 Wheeler street, was arrested, charged with knowing something of the threats, and at a hearing in Frankstown Avenue Police Station, was held over for further investigation.

Detective Frank Scott, who, with Detective M. J. O'Connor made the arrest, said that Crasi was jailed because Thomas was directed to place the money in Grasi's automobile. Grasi was arrested near the Frankstown Avenue Police Station early today and a revolver was found in the tool box of his auto. He denied being the author of the letters and said he had placed the revolver in his auto because he had been held up last week.

Thomas late today appeared at detective headquarters and requested that the letters in the hands of the sleuths be returned to him. Thomas, according to the officers, appeared alarmed over the publicity the letters and arrest of Grassi had brought.

BELIEVE GIRL IN TRANCE

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Possibility that Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith College heiress, may be the prisoner of a "prosperous-looking business man" three times her age, today came out of the maze of nation-wide conflicting "tips" concerning the case.

The latest clue is being thoroughly investigated by police here. It was furnished by Charles L. Smart, of Kane, Pa., and lends support to a theory previously set forth that the girl is under the influence of some stronger mind.

Smart told of seeing the girl he believes is Miss Smith in the Pennsylvania Station here. His attention was attracted to her companion, Smart said, by the man's "bulbous nose."

"I saw the girl approach the information desk," said Smart. "She had all the appearances of refinement and wealth. She was accompanied by a man who might have been 55 or 60 years old.

"I noticed the man particularly because of his appearance. He was very stern faced and decisive. He seemed to have the girl awed, and when he told her to stand by the information booth until he returned she appeared afraid of her life.

"She took a few steps toward the Western Union branch station, but hastily returned. In about seven minutes the man returned and took the girl toward the taxi stand. I followed and saw them get into a cab and drive away."

REVENGE THEORY

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—The theory that vengeance may have been responsible for the mysterious disappearance of Frances St. John Smith, of New York, Smith College girl, today spurred Chicago authorities to renewed efforts in their search for the missing heiress here.

Relatives of the Smith girl, it is understood, testified against a man named O'Connell, alias George Hamilton, now serving a term in Sing Sing prison, New York. Eastern authorities are proceeding on the theory that friends of the convict may have kidnaped the girl, and perhaps killed her, for revenge.

Chicago police, it is understood, have been asked by Inspector Leahy of New York to scour Chicago's underworld for O'Connell's friends. Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes refused either to

The Flivver Flies The Dollar Rules 6, Good, Beat 8, Bad Diligent in Business

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

AT 7:15 yesterday morning, Harry Brooks, air pilot, shook hands with Henry Ford and William B. Mayo, Ford's chief engineer, and climbed into the air in a tiny flying machine that Detroit calls "Ford's Flying Flivver."

Brooks carried forty-eight gallons of gasoline, one quart of drinking water, no food, and started to fly from Detroit to Miami, non-stop, in fourteen hours.

A little after 4 p. m. he was forced down in a suburb of Asheville, N. C., more than half the distance from Detroit to Miami, by heavy winds and ice forming on the wings.

IN ENGLAND the tiny planes called "moths," with a wing spread of about 20 feet, go two hundred miles an hour, and are in regular use.

From Detroit to Miami in one day, for $3.60 worth of gasoline, would make intelligent railroad men thoughtful.

MR. FORD has been making flying flivvers for some time, but had not put them on the market, probably, for fear that young people would be tempted to kill themselves. He sells his big, all-metal three-engine planes which, according to Mr. Jackson, vice president of the Standard Oil of Indiana, are as safe as Pullman cars.

REGINALD M'KENNA, British banker, says the whole world is on a dollar basis. Gold is "only the nominal basis of currency.

"The buying power of the dollar really regulates money and prices."

A GENTLEMAN who has read but hasn't taken the writer's advice about not selling things short, asked yesterday: "What makes you write that?"

To begin with, a dollar is worth sixty cents now, as compared with 1914. Anything that was intrinsically worth a dollar fourteen years ago is worth a dollar and eighty cents now.

Don't sell short, but don't gamble, either.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, eighty-eight years old, and wise beyond that age, reduces his golf game from eight holes to six holes. "Eight holes are too much for a man of my age," says he, "and, anyhow, it's better to be a good golfer for six holes than a bad golfer for eight holes."

To realize your age and physical

Fannie Hurst At Mines

The first of Fannie Hurst's articles on the coal strike, to be published exclusively in The Sun-Telegraph, will appear tomorrow. She laid the groundwork for the series yesterday.

Courteously declining the many invitations to receptions, luncheons and parties that awaited her on her arrival from New York in the morning, the famous novelist plunged immediately into her task of collecting the facts of the great industrial war that has raged in Western Pennsylvania for two years and a half, and is now believed by many persons to be nearing a crisis.

SEEKS TRUTH ONLY

Fannie Hurst sought the truth, sought it in every quarter that gave promise of throwing light on the situation. She visited half a dozen widely scattered mining camps; she talked to miners and their wives and children, to mine superintendents, to officers and organizers of the United Mine Workers of America, to the state police patrolling the strike zone.

Her talking, however, consisted of questions. Not even to the members of her own party did she commit herself as to what opinions, if any,

Chamberlin Forced Down

By International News Service.

MIFFLIN, Pa., Jan. 25.—Clarence Chamberlin, famed trans-Atlantic flier, was forced down here this afternoon when his tiny Sperry messenger airplane, in which he was en route to Altoona from Harrisburg, ran out of gas.

The flier was forced to land in a ball diamond, and in landing damaged a wing of the tiny plane. He was uninjured, and boarded a train for Altoona, being due there shortly after 3 p. m.

ICE SNARLS TRAFFIC HERE

Borne by a 44-mile-an-hour wind, another cold snap arrived early today, changing rain to snow flurries and coating highways with a layer of ice that slowed up traffic and caused many minor accidents.

The blustery wind had diminished to 38 miles an hour this afternoon, with prospect of further abatement during the day. The temperature, 25 at 3 o'clock, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said, likely would fall to between 15 and 20 degrees tonight, the light snowfall giving way to cloudiness.

Mostly cloudy and normal winter temperatures are due tomorrow.

Every steep grade in the city and county presented a hazard to motorists this morning. City Department of Public Works employes were out early with trucks loaded with ashes and by 10 o'clock the heavily traveled thoroughfares were made safe. Traffic tieups occurred in almost every section of the city.

The Liberty Tubes were jammed for an hour or more with traffic tied up on Brownsville avenue. City and county police stationed at the tunnels spread ashes at the north approach, but the hill from Carson street to the tunnel roadways was blocked with skidding machines until after 9 o'clock.

The jam was so great about 8:30 o'clock that it was necessary to divert northbound traffic through the tubes for almost half an hour.

300 Cars Ordered By P.R.R.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad today announced that it had placed orders for 300 standard all-steel 70-foot passenger coaches, 210 standard all-steel 60-foot baggage cars and 20 standard all-steel 70-foot combined passenger-baggage cars for delivery during the present year.

Of the 300, 70-foot steel passenger coaches ordered, 50 will be built by the Pressed Steel Car Company, at McKees Rocks.

CURTIS ON RECORD AS "DRY"

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Senator Charles Curtis (Rep.), of Kansas, today answered the "prohibition questionnaire" propounded by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, as part of his campaign to put all prospective Republican presidential nomination candidates on record on the "wet-or-dry" question.

"I personally favor a plank referring to the Eighteenth amendment and the laws enacted to carry it into effect, and I favor a plank pledging the nominee to a fair, vigorous and faithful enforcement of them," Curtis wrote in answer to Borah's open letter.

The Kansas candidate stated unequivocally that he opposes repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, and opposes legislation permitting states to determine the prcentage of alcoholic content in beverages.

13 Injured In Fire

Thirteen persons, including three women, were injured and overcome by fumes from an ammonia tank last night during a fire that swept a four-story brick apartment building at 831 Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, making 35 persons, the members of seven families homeless. Three stores and a dentist's office were damaged by the flames that caused a total damage estimated at $55,000 by Chief Frank Graham of the East Pittsburgh fire department.

Seven of the injured were firemen who were cut and slightly burned after being overcome by the ammonia fumes while fighting the fire.

Mrs. Anna Hervaheck, 34, was dropped by her husband, Thomas, 37, from the second floor after he had carried her unconscious from the fourth floor. She suffered a broken right ankle and lacerations of the head. Mrs. John Cusick, suffered a cut on the head when she fell unconscious in her fourth floor apartment. She was carried to the street. Mrs. Fred Kananoff, 32, of the third floor was hurt in a similar manner.

Councilman Nathan Beck, chairman of the fire committee was overcome by fumes when he attempted to rescue a number of firemen who had been affected by the fumes while working in the building. He was rescued by other workers. Chief Graham and Assistant Chiefs Frank Bennett, Jr., and Charles Stack, also were overcome. Other firemen that were overcome were John Douglass, William Kessler, John Mischan, and Robert Hurley, all members of the East Pittsburgh fire department.

Hurley was working with several other firemen directing a hose on the "Fox" Demands Trial Judge Removed

By International News Service.

COURTROOM, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—The trial of William Edward Hickman for the kidnaping and murder of Marian Parker today was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon when defense counsel moved to disqualify Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy from presiding.

Attorneys for Hickman, in an affidavit sworn to by the confessed kidnaper-killer, charged that Judge Hardy was biased and could not give the defendant a fair and impartial trial.

Judge Hardy ordered the recess in order to take the defense motion under advisement.

Before the judge had time to leave his bench, Jerome Walsh, chief defense counsel, sprang to his feet and declared the defense was ready to go to trial immediately.

Apparently pleased with his brief respite and the sudden turn of affairs, Hickman smiled broadly as he was led out of the courtroom to be taken back to his cell two floors above.

Battle lines were drawn into position early for what promises to be the most dramatic legal skirmish in the history of California.

Hours before the time set for the opening of the trial, excited crowds milled about the corridors of the hall of justice hoping to get a glimpse of the notorious slayer.

Hickman's father and mother, who separated nine years ago, are present at the trial, both prepared to do what lies in their power to save their son from the gallows.

COMBINED FIRE DEPARTMENTS BATTLE BLAZE

Fire swept a four-story brick apartment building at 831 Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, early today and made 35 persons, the members of seven families, homeless. For nearly six hours the combined forces of the East Pittsburgh and Braddock fire departments fought the fire which is believed to have started in the cellar. The blaze damaged the building to the extent of $55,000. Smoke and ammonia fumes disabled several firemen and residents. The dental offices of Dr. Howard Swartz on the second floor and a grocery on the first floor were heavily damaged.

LOVE SECRET OF NOTED WRITER'S GENIUS

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Here is the secret of Fannie Hurst's genius. She loves folks.

Poor folks—folks that live in shacks in mud villages that remind her of little towns in Russia she has visited recently and have scarcely enough to eat or enough to keep their poor thin bodies from shivering with cold.

In her tour of Pittsburgh mining camps yesterday the great writer's face was a study in human sympathy and understanding. You felt somehow that these blue brown eyes were looking straight through into the souls of the suffering miners' families and reading all the misery and unhappiness there.

She shed no tears. Fannie Hurst is not an emotional woman of the sort that bubbles over in moment of weakness. But love and understanding was apparent in the way she entered their homes, the way she shook hands with them and the way she spoke words of encouragement and hope that brought quick smiles to drawn, haggard faces.

In a small shack where a mother, father and 12 children lived, a baby coughed pitifully in a room off the kitchen. In a moment Miss Hurst was through the door and lifting it up. Had it had a doctor? Did they really know why it coughed? Was there anything she could do?

She did not "poor soul" them or remind them of their woe. Instead she pointed to their shiny stoves and their bare, cleanly scrubbed floors and shook her head and told them:

"I don't see how you do it! All these children in this little place and all the rain and mud outside. You could certainly teach almost anyone I know how to clean house."

And the women would beam and brighten with pleasure. All were happier when she said goodbye. For she told them it was wonderful the way they could manage and the way they kept their children so nice and clean and tried to make their pitiful huts look like home.

They opened their hearts to her and tried their best to make her welcome with what they had. There was not one of them who appeared ill at ease after the first introductions were over, and Miss Hurst smiled and picked up their babies. How could they feel that way?

For doesn't a mother, of all people on earth, know that look in another woman's face, when she takes her baby in her arms and tells it what a lovely and beautiful cherub it is.

But the mothers and babies were not alone in the sharing of Miss Hurst's affection and understanding. Every little puppy dog in every barracks got a pat—and a bit of love.

One little puppy, almost hairless, stood dilapidated and crestfallen as the famous novelist made overtures and tried to become acquainted. He brought this comment:

"Poor little fellow. He has all the sadness in the world in his eyes. I wonder if he feels the horror of all that is going on around him. I guess he knows."

And as if he understood, the little dog suddenly sniffed at Miss Hurst's hand—then began following her everywhere she went. At parting she told him sorrowfully:

"Sorry, little boy, but I have three dogs, a Persian cat and a monkey at home. Or I'd take you back to great big New York with me."

Her husband, Jaques Danielson grinned at her indulgently:

"How can you turn him down? He's the first one you ever did."

SON-IN-LAW TELLS OF "GIFT"

By JOHN A. KENNEDY,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Harry F. Sinclair gave Albert B. Fall $233,000 in Liberty bonds and loans of $36,000 in cash after the Teapot Dome oil lease was signed in the spring of 1922, M. T. Everhardt, son-in-law of the former Secretary of the Interior, testified yesterday.

Dramatically breaking a six-year silence, Everhardt took the witness stand before the Senate Public Lands Committee and "under protest," told this amazing story of the financial deal between the oil baron and former government official.

Everhardt acted as trustee and intermediary in the deals, he said.

It was the story which Senate probers and Federal courts have been vigilantly seeking to develop since the oil scandals dropped like a bombshell in the national capital in 1923-24.

Twice previously Everhardt had declined to testify "it would tend to incriminate me," he swore both time.

TELLS BOND DEAL

Deprived of his self-incrimination plea by a new act of Congress which reduced the statute of limitation for conspiracies to defraud the government from six to three years, the wind-bronzed rancher and banker came forward and told his story.

The $233,000 in Liberty bonds, Everhardt explained, were given by Sinclair in return for a one-third interest in the Fall-Everhardt ranch properties in New Mexico which the oil king, Fall and Everhardt were planning to develop into a gigantic country club, breeding ranch and recreational grounds.

Of this amount $198,000 was turned over to Everhardt in May, 1922—a few weeks after the Teapot lease was signed by Fall—delivery was made in Sinclair's private railroad car in Washington.

"They were all in a package. I turned the package over to Fall in his office in the Interior Department. He took $2,500 of this amount for his personal needs and later gave me back the remainder," Everhardt said.

"This represented a partial payment on Sinclair's part of the purchase price," he testified.

Later, Everhardt told the committee, he took the remaining $195,500 in bonds to New York where he was given the balance amounting to $35,000 in bonds.

"Where did that occur?" Senator Thomas Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, "prosecutor" of the original Teapot Dome oil scandal, asked.

"In Mr. Sinclair's offices in New York City," Everhardt answered.

"What did you next do with them?" he was asked.

"I shipped them to Pueblo, Col., by express."

BONDS PAY DEBTS

Approximately $145,000 of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds were used to liquidate debts of Fall and his Tres Rios (Three Rivers) Cattle and Land Company to the M. D. Thatcher Estates Company of Pueblo.

The remaining $90,000 in bonds, Everhardt said, was first placed in Fall's safety deposit box in the First National Bank at Pueblo and later "sent South" to Fall.

When Everhardt went to New York to secure the additional $35,000 in Liberty bonds, Fall instructed him to ask Sinclair whether he (Fall) could borrow additional funds from the oil man.

Sinclair agreed to this request, Everhardt said, and later approximately $36,000 in cash was advanced to Everhardt in carrying out this agreement.

Something over $10,000 of this "loan" was given to Everhardt by Sinclair at Fall's New Mexico ranch. The remaining $25,000 in cash was given to him in Sinclair's suite at the Wardman Park Hotel here. Fall lived in the same hotel at the time.

Sinclair has been subpenaed to appear at tomorrow afternoon's session of the committee.

The $36,000 cash loans concerning which Everhardt testified had never been touched on before either in the Senate hearings or the court actions.

All except $2,500 of the Liberty bonds were located in Fall's possession at the recent Teapot Dome criminal trial, but had never been directly traced from Sinclair's possession.

Frank Goldstein, 60, was overcome when he re-entered the building to save some of his clothing. The ammonia tanks were in the basement of the building and were used in a refrigeration system. The fumes spread to the street and scattered the crowd that had gathered to watch the blaze.

Stores on the first floor, including the Liberty Market, East Pittsburgh Curb Market, and the O. K. Grocery store were damaged as well as the Army & Navy store at 506 Electric avenue. The office of H. E. Schultz, on the second floor also was damaged. The building is owned by the McAndrews estate. The North Braddock fire department was called to assist in extinguishing the fire. CURTAIL POLLS IN SCHOOLS

The County Commissioners yesterday were notified by the Board of Education that no quarters in public schools will be set aside as polling places in the future, when it would necessitate the closing of regular school rooms. The commissioners also were notified that members of the school board are investigating the use of school buildings as polling places.

Action is expected to be taken at a meeting Monday night of the school board's finance committee on a report of the commissioners' refusal last week to pay the school board's bill of $18,416 for use of school buildings as polling places for the last two years.

FORMER FROSTBURG MAYOR KILLS SELF

FROSTBURG, Md., Jan. 25.—Olin R. Rice had been in ill health and made his will shortly before he shot himself.

13-Cent Cigar Ghost Rises Up Against Beck

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The fondness of James M. Beck for a certain 13-cent cigar sold by the Union League Club of New York City was used as evidence against him today before a House elections committee in his fight to retain a Republican seat in the House from Pennsylvania.

Representative Kent, Democrat, Pennsylvania, prosecutor of the Democratic move to oust Beck on the ground that he was not a legal resident of Philadelphia at the time of his election, contended that in ordering the cigars Beck had requested their shipment to "my residence at 1624 Twenty-first street, Washington, D. C."

Slugger Suspect Is Nabbed

A Negro answering the description of a slugger who has attacked approximately 100 girls in the East End and North Side districts during the last two months, usually using a milk bottle in his attacks, was held at the city detective bureau today while girl victims were being summoned for possible identification.

The Negro said he was Henry Wright, 20, of 2511 Wadsworth street. In Morals Court this morning he was sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse, but was turned over to detectives for investigation before beginning the sentence.

Wright was arrested by Patrolman Arch Marrone after a struggle in Epiphany street early today. He is said to have had a heavy pair of knucklers, and in a coat pocket was a "disguise" in the form of a cap and a pair of shell-rimmed glasses.

COURT RETURNS SEIZED LIQUOR

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker yesterday signed a decree dismissing the forfeiture libel against 12 cases of whisky seized by prohibition agents, June 1, 1927, in the home of Mrs. Hazel Folger, Piedmont avenue, Dormont.

He ordered it returned to Andy Garavini, the claimant, who boards at the Folger home, because the liquor had been seized without a Federal search warrant. United States District Attorney John D. Meyer filed a motion, with consent of Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, for the order to dismiss, stating the seizure had been unlawful.

Meanwhile, Chicago is the center of the world-wide search for the missing heiress. Information forwarded from New York indicate that Eastern investigators are now convinced that the girl, if alive, is being held somewhere in the Middle West, probably in Chicago.

GUARD RANSOM ADDRESS

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—Police today continued their guard on an apartment house at 2739 Second boulevard, the address given by the mysterious writer of a ransom note to the mother of Frances St. John Smith, 18-year-old Smith College student heiress, who has been missing 11 days. The letter threatened death to the girl.

While admitting that the letter may be a hoax, police are sparing no pains to check on its authorship, and the search for the girl here was widened to include practically all law enforcement and welfare agencies.

Every possible clue is being checked carefully, and experts are examining the handwriting of persons in the neighborhood of the Second boulevard address in an effort to solve the identity of "M. R. Spring," signer of the ransom letter.

4 CHILDREN KILLED IN TORNADO

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The storm which swept in a great semi-circle south of Nashville through a half dozen or more counties yesterday afternoon reached the climax of its destructiveness in Dekalb county, where a rural district school on Holmes creek was blown over and four children killed and another probably fatally injured.

The dead are:

Edward Atnip, 8; Harvey Cripps, 5; George W. Smith, 14, and Ruby Hayes, 6.

Aubrey Smith, 14, is expected to die from internal injuries.

H. Grady Carter, teacher, sustained a broken ankle and numerous cuts and bruises, but his condition is not considered as serious.

STRIKES SUDDENLY

The school is six miles north of Smithville and the storm which wrecked it and snuffed out the lives of the children came almost without warning.

A neighbor mounted his horse and carried the news to Smithville and doctors hastened to the scene.

Telephone connection between Nashville and Smithville was still interrupted this morning and details of the disaster were brought here by bus.

Vote New Car for Mayor

The special committee of Council investigating city automobiles and the use of taxicabs by city employes has decided to recommend the purchase of a new car for Mayor Charles H. Kline. The decision was reached after a conference with the Mayor by Councilmen Harry A. Little, John S. Herron and W. Y. English, members of the committee.

An ordinance appropriating $4,000 for the new car was held over yesterday when Councilman Charles Anderson voiced objections.

Firemen Giver Liquor as Dry Agents Watch

By Universal Service.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Jan. 24.—Prohibition enforcement authorities winked at a general violation of the Volstead act as a result of a big fire here, it was disclosed.

Fire fighters, their clothes covered with ice, begged for sups of whisky.

The druggists responded so liberally to the call that before long they had to call in the bootleggers. The latter came to the "rescue." They passed liquor to the firemen in view of the sheriff and a federal agent.

BELIEVES HE SAW HEIRESS HERE

Belief that Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith College student, walked into Pittsburgh from Wilkinsburg during the blinding rain of last Thursday, was expressed today by J. S. Bowman, dancing school proprietor.

"I was entering the building at 710 Penn avenue when a young girl about 18, nicely dressed and apparently of refinement stopped me and asked the 'way to town'," Mr. Bowman said. "I pointed out the street car stop and the bus sign. She told me she wanted to walk. She was dressed so nicely that I was afraid she would be insulted if I asked her if she had no money, so I pointed out Penn avenue. She started walking in Penn avenue in the rain."

The girl wore a buff-colored coat which came to her knees, black silk hose and black slippers. Her general build answers the description of the Smith girl, he declared, and when he saw the photographs published in Tuesday's Sun-Telegraph he felt certain that he had talked with the missing girl.

ODEY LA MARR

Odey LaMarr, a member of the comedy team of Barr and LaMarr at the Harris Theater, writes a letter promising to take part in the benefit performance in the Sheridan Square Theater, Thursday starting at 11:30 p. m., for relief of miners' families.

BOB HALL'S STREET SHOW

The ryhmster comedian with the California Night Hawks' jazz band, sallied forth on a motor truck yesterday and gave what he called the "Street Corner Follies," an impromtu show, announcing the coming benefit arranged by the Theater Managers' Association at the Sheridan Square. Hall will be master of ceremonies.

CROWDS GIVE LIBERALLY WHEN HAT IS PASSED

A bag of coin was collected by the pretty girls of the "Street Corner Follies," and the money was turned over promptly to the miners' relief organization. This contribution was designated as a fund raised by the National Vaudeville Artists, and sponsored by Hall. Five shows were presented by the perapetic thespians in the downtown business section.

LUCILLE MIDDLETON

Lucille Middleton, statuesque dancer at the Davis this week, "passed the hat."

DAVE HARMAN

One of the big features at the Sheridan Square benefit will be Dave Harman and his band from the Penn Theater, where he has delighted big crowds since Christmas week.

CHOIR GIVES MINSTREL TO AID CHURCH FUND

TO DO SPECIALTY

Members of the choir of the East End Christian Church, Alder street and Highland avenue, presented a minstrel last night in the church auditorium. It will be peated tonight and Thursday. E. W. Cornelius, Helen Shaffer, Hazel Cook and Peg Ackerman appear in an Oriental number.

COLONIAL DAME

Song and dance specialties feature the program. Arline Shaffer sings several charming numbers costumed in colonial garb.

GYPSY GROUP

Nellie Aiken, G. V. Shand, Alice Stone, Jean Armstrong, Kathleen Unrue and aMrgaret King comprise the gypsy group, one of the most entertaining features of the program.

RUSSIAN DANCERS

Dancing features predominate. William L. Shaffer and Rae McCormick appear in a pleasing Russian number. Proceeds from the three-day show will be used to complete the choir's pledge to the church building fund.

VOTE SHIPS TO HAUL EXPORTS

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—In an effort to promote foreign exports of American produced coal the House by a vote of 205 to 117 has incorporated in the independent offices appropriations bill an item of $1,000,000 for reconditioning 10 vessels of the United States Shipping Board in a way that will make them suitable for coal shipments.

The measure was originally proposed by Representative Adam M. Wyant, of Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, but was offered at the time of passage by Representative Robinson (Rep.), of Kentucky, chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining.

Representative Wyant estimated today that the 10 vessels to be reconditioned would have a total coal capacity of 80,000 tons for each trip and that it would be possible to export approximately 15,000,000 tons annually.

"If we could take this much domestic coal out of the American market and sell it abroad it would be a considerable factor in relieving the present depressed condition of the industry," said Representative Wyant. "Great Britain now exports approximately 70,000,000 tons of coal yearly. There is no reason why we should not be able to compete with her."

VARE WILL QUIT RUMOR SAYS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The decision of the Senate Privileges and Elections Committee on the Wilson-Vare Pennsylvania election contest will probably be made known late today. This announcement was made after attorneys for Senator-Elect William S. Vare and for William B. Wilson, the defeated Democratic candidate, concluded their arguments. A vote is to be taken at 4 o'clock on Wilson's petition for a recount of the ballots cast in six Pennsylvania counties in the 1926 election.

Reports were current in the capital that if the contest is thrown out by the committee Vare will resign as Senator and seek vindication at the polls this spring. Vare refused either to confirm or deny these reports, but he declared that none of his recent statements could be interpreted in that light.

Vare would have to resign before February 24, the last day for filing candidacy petitions, if he desired to run in the primaries on April 24.

INDICT DEPUTY AS EMBEZZLER

William A. Coll, former deputy internal revenue collector here, was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury today on six counts of embezzlement of revenue funds. The charges involve $693.

THINK TEACHER HIDING HERE

MONESSEN, Pa., Jan. 25.—A romance is hinted by relatives in the disappearance of Miss Loretta Lamey, 24, school teacher. Some are inclined to believe she is in seclusion with friends in Pittsburgh.

At the home of her aunt, Mrs. George Engle, here, where she roomed, it was said nothing had been heard from the young woman since her disappearance more than a week ago after she had written a note "not to look for me." Later a letter of resignation, mailed in Monessen, was received by C. R. McClelland, superintendent of schools.

Miss Lamey formerly was employed in the laboratory of West Penn Hospital, Pittsburgh.

TAKE NEW SANDINO FORT

MANAGUA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—American Marines were installed today on the slope of El Chipote Mountain, the stronghold which the rebel Gen. Sandino considered impregnable. This was the second rebel headquarters to fall before the Marine advance in which Sandino is believed by Marines to have been wounded.

The Sandino headquarters at Quilili was seized by the Marines on December 30 after a battle in which five Marines were killed. Sandino then withdrew to El Chipote and entrenched himself on the mountain. On January 4 American Marine planes flew over the mountain bombing and raking the rebels with machine gun fire. They brought back reports that 40 guerillas had been slain in this attack.

SEE NO ACTIVITY

Seeking to verify reports that Sandino had been killed in the encounter Marine planes flew over El Chipote last week. They noted no activity there, only signs of death and evacuation being evident. Marine patrols proceeded carefully through the mountainous jungle toward the stronghold.

Yesterday Maj. Archibald Young, commander of the Marines in the affected section, advised headquarters that a column of Marines had established itself on the slopes of El Chipote.

Patrols operating in the vicinity have killed between six and ten rebels in the past few days, but the region itself has been extremely quiet recently.

Col. Louis Mason Gulick, in command of operations, said it was fairly well established that Sandino was wounded in the raid on January 14. It was not known how seriously.

Latest advices were that Sandino had a small group of followers with him. The main body of rebels is understood to have broken up into smaller bands and scattered through eastern Nueva Segovia.

One thousand Marines of the Eleventh Regiment are marching into the district to take the field against Sandino, intent on stamping out the rebel movement in all towns and villages. They will replace detachments of the Fifth Regiment, which have been on duty in Nueva Segovia for six months.

Robber Is Believed Shot

Surprised while attempting to break into the confectionery store of H. Rosenfeld, 2504 Carson street, early today, a burglar is believed to have been struck in a hail of bullets fired by Rosenfeld. Detectives and police were watching hospitals and physicians' offices, believing that the man, if shot, would soon apply for medical attention.

Rosenfeld told police he was awakened by someone attempting to open a rear door. He obtained a revolver and suddenly opened the door and confronted the burglar, who turned and ran. Rosenfeld emptied his gun at the vanishing figure and the fleeing robber slipped as though he had been struck. Rosenfeld, who was only scantily clad, was unable to follow, and the man escaped.

PROPOSE BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOL GYMNASIUM

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 25.—Provision for Washington's first school gymnasium is made in the proposed bond issue by the school board to bring the school equipment up to the desired standard. Although it has a population of 25,000, Washington never has had a school gymnasium. A survey by the state department of education estimates that $1,099,500 will be necessary to give the city a modern educational system.

limitations is the secret of long life.

SOME man should be employed to write Mr. Rockefeller's mental biography. Dr. Ludwig, who wrote an excellent life of Napoleon, might do it. Ostrogorski, the Russian, who wrote the book on democracy, could do it well. Mr. Lorimer, of the Saturday Evening Post, could do it even better, but is probably too busy.

To tell the mental history of one of the world's most successful men would be useful.

"SEEST thou a man diligent in his business, he shall stand before kings."—The Bible.

Seest thou a man diligent in the chain store business, he shall stand among kings of money.

The Woolworth stores earned more than $35,000,000 last year. Ten cents isn't much, five cents seems little. But twenty nickels make one dollar. If you had all the copper pennies in the United States you would be worth $50,000,000.

TALCOTT WILLIAMS, good newspaper man, who managed Joseph Pulitzer's School of Journalism, is dead, and probably, answering Joseph Pulitzer's questions, in Heaven.

No matter what Professor Williams tells him, Joseph Pulitzer will not be satisfied. He always was dissatisfied. That's why he succeeded. If rich men could leave such dissatisfaction to their sons, instead of leaving them money, the sons would do better.

"OH, NOTHING; just a little cold in the head." You have often heard your sniffling friend say that. Learn now, from authority that colds in the head cost this country in lost time, doctors' bills, etc., one thousand five hundred million dollars a year.

Colds weaken the body's power to resist disease and cause probably one-third of all deaths. There is no such thing as a "little" cold.

FEDERAL CLERKS LEARN -:- INCOME TAX METHODS

LEARNING HOW TO GET YOUR MONEY

Courtroom No. 2 of the United States District Court has been temporarily turned into a schoolroom, with blackboards and plenty of arithmetic. The teacher is James W. Beers, of Washington, chief of the training section of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The pupils are deputy collectors and clerks in the Twenty-third Internal Revenue district of Pennsylvania, of which D. B. Heiner is collector. The "pupils" shown in the classroom are receiving a special course in accounting in order to become more efficient in the handling of records of income taxes of corporations and individuals.

SHOWS THEM IT'S EASY

Beers is shown at the blackboard explaining methods for determining what is due the government from taxpayers. After getting the school under way, Beers left yesterday for Parkersburg, W. Va., to open a school there. He will return to his Pittsburgh class in a few days.

ALBERT FALL

HARRY F. SINCLAIR

After a silence of six years, Fall's son-in-law broke down yesterday and admitted the former Secretary of Interior in Harding's cabinet received $233,000 in bonds and a loan of $36,000 from Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, following the Teapot Dome oil deal.

FANNIE HURST AT MINES

FAMOUS WRITER PLUNGES INTO HER WORK

she had formed on the conflict. Miss Hurst came here, she said, as a neutral in the strugg'- and did not propose to make up her mind until she had absorbed a vast amount of information. Her absorptive capacity was amazing.

For some time Miss Hurst has been engrossed in her work as a writer of novels and short stories. Her latest book, "A President is Born," only recently came from the press. With her attention centered on these labors, she had had scant time to consider the miners' strike, and came to Pittsburgh, knowing only in a sketchy way what is involved in the controversy. Yet it is safe to say that there are few persons today, outside of the operators and leaders of the miners, that are better informed on the subject than Miss Hurst.

GOOD LISTENER

Those who accompanied th novelist in her tour yesterday expected to find her bewildered, unable to assimilate the huge mass of reports, statistics, charges and counter charges, rumors, recitals and predictions that were poured into her receptive ears by the multitude eager to win her sympathy and command her support. But Miss Hurst was a good listener, and it was manifest that her keen mind was weighing and appraising every item.

This was displayed time and again when, in a few words, she asked an incisive question that cut through to the very heart of the matter under discussion. It was apparent that she was seeking a remedy for the present distreassful conditions, a cure for the economic cancer that is blighting the lives of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children.

EXPLORES MINE PIT

Miss Hurst's luggage had scarcely been deposited at her hotel before she was off for the mines. She was accompanied by her husband, Jacques S. Danielson, and by several Sun-Telegraph employes to guide her in a region with which she was not familiar.

Miss Hurst was eager to enter and explore a mine, and to see miners at work, though she confessed laughingly that her mother had forbidden her to do so. Another obstacle was the superstition prevalent among miners that the entrance of a woman into a mine is liable to bring disaster.

Miss Hurst visited Harmarville first. She called at the sub-station of the state police near there and talked to troopers who dispersed the meeting of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers last October, when one of the officers was shot to death. Then she went to Acmetonia, where the miners evicted from the company houses at Harmarville have established a refugee camp. She entered a number of the "apartments" in the barracks, and talked to the people.

The next stop was at Russellton, where she spent so time in a hall of the miners' union that has been converted into a lodging house for a number of families. Curtisville, where barracks are in course of construction, followed.

INSPECTS MANY CAMPS

The party then drove across the county for an inspection of the camps at Cooley, Mollenauer and Curry.

It was night when Miss Hurst returned to the city, but her day's work was not yet completed. She had an appointment with Philip Murray, international vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, and had a long interview with him.

Miss Hurst will continue her survey today.

WILLYS DEALERS HOLD MEETING

More than 150 dealers of the Willys-Overland sales organization in the tristate district yesterday attended the annual Pittsburgh zone convention in Hotel Schenley.

The convention opened with a business session in the afternoon, at which L. G. Peed, general sales manager of the Willys-Overland Company, spoke on "Policies and Program for 1928," R. M. Rowland, sales promotion manager, on "How to Find the Market," and N. A. Beardsley, regional manager, on "The Regional Office and Its Functions." The business session was followed by a banquet in that hotel, at which factory and distributing officers participated in an entertainment program headed by O. T. Kellogg, zone manager.

DRY VIOLATORS GET NEW TRIAL

Three men convicted in the Monessen whisky conspiracy in February, 1927, are granted a new trial in a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, United States District Attorney John D. Meyer was notified today. The judgment of the Federal Court is upheld in the conviction of eight others in the case.

Those granted new trials are Hymie Cohen, Nate Hollander and John Farmosky. Each had been sentenced to three months in the Westmoreland county jail.

DARROW ATTACKS CRIME 'REVENGE'

Society's methods of dealing with crime are all wrong, according to Clarence Darrow, criminal lawyer, who last night addressed an audience of more than 1,500 in the auditorium of the Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Association, where he was one of the star features of the organization's lecture season. Sympathetic corrective measures, and not vengeance, declared the speaker, should be the basis of all dealing with criminals.

"Few criminals are responsible for their acts," said Darrow. "They are the victims of heredity, pernicious environment or other causes over which they have no control, and instead of suffering barbarous punishment should be treated as we care for the sick. We give tender care to the victims of bodily ailments and those who suffer mental ills deserve the same consideration. Visit every jail in the country and you will find that nine-tenths of the inmates are men who in their boyhood did not have a chance. Undernourishment, weakening habits or bad company sent them astray. A kind word to a boy may start him on the road to respectability and good citizenship, whereas, if he is kicked and cuffed he will grow up a criminal."

Mr. Darrow was the guest at a small dinner party before the lecture at the home of Charles M. Joseph, Darrow's host while the latter is in Pittsburgh.

"MAYOR" KILLS HIMSELF

Andy Bobanick, 49, ward politician, known to his friends as "Mayor of Woods Run," shot himself in the right temple in his home at 2933 Preble avenue last night, dying instantly. Police believe financial troubles caused the act.

HAD RHEUMATISM FOR MANY YEARS

Former Minister Says Ten Herbs Was Only Medicine That Gave Relief.

"I suffered with rheumatism for many years," was the statement of Dr. A. W. Eckert, 622 Washington street, Allentown, Pa., to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May's Main Store, 529 Liberty avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the popular medicine, Ten Herbs. "Each year it got worse, and lately I had to use a cane," continued Dr. Eckert, former minister and evangelist, who is well-known in and around Allentown. "My knees and back ached all the time. I tried different kinds of medicines, but got no help. I was really worse after taking them, as they upset my stomach and affected my heart so much that I got so weak I could hardly stand. I could not get the proper sleep because of the pain, and would arise in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed. I felt miserable all the time.

"One morning I read in the paper about Ten Herbs, and decided to try your medicine. I have been improving right along until now, after using three bottles. I am almost well again. I shall continue the use of this medicine until I am completely relieved. I can heartily recommend Ten Herbs to the public as a splendid preparation."

Ten Herbs usually gives prompt relief in rheumatic cases, because it gets at the source of the trouble by cleansing the entire system of poisonous waste matter and impurities. This great natural medicine also is used and highly recommended as a splendid tonic for the stomach, liver and kidneys and regulates the bowels. Ten Herbs builds strength, adds weight, increases energy, relieves aches and pains, and restores appetite and sleep. Try this new herbal compound, and you may never again say, "Nothing can help me."

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May's Main Store, 529 Liberty avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

INDIGESTION
Two Minute Relief!

Have you ever tried Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets? If not you should do so and perhaps find the relief you have long sought.

These tablets were first placed on sale in drug stores in December 1894, thirty-three years ago, and have steadily increased in popularity ever since as attested by millions of users.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain no soda nor any other harmful ingredient, but the desired alkaline effect is secured by a pleasant combination of Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate with other ingredients for the prompt relief of that acidity, discomfort after eating, nausea, fullness after meals, etc.

However the proof of the pudding is in the eating and if you wish to see what these tablets will do for your particular stomach, try the handy metal box for purse or pocket (enough for a full week's test) for a quarter at your druggist. The large size for 60 cents, and the family size $1.20. A sweet stomach for twenty-five cents!

"COME TO MINERS' BENEFIT"

COUNCIL TO ATTEND CHARITY PERFORMANCE

Howard Thurston, magician, appeared before city Council yesterday and invited members to attend the benefit in the Pitt Theater Friday afternoon for the benefit of the women and children in the mining camps of the district. In the picture Thurston is shaking hands with President of Council James F. Malone, while Councilmen Daniel Winters, P. J. McArdle, Harry A. Little, Robert Garland, W. Y. English, Robert J. McArdle, Charles Anderson and John S. Herron watch. They'll all be at the benefit.

WEYMANN BODY GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

"They Weymann flexible body is not only in America to stay," declared E. S. Gorrell, vice president of the Stutz Motor Car Company, "but it is my firm conviction, based on our experience with these bodies during the last year, that the public's acceptance of and demand for this body will be as widespread and rapid as it has been in Europe, where the Weyman body originated.

"The full import of this prediction is apparent when it is recalled that the first Weymann bodies were introduced in Europe eight years ago, and at the Paris and London motor shows a few months ago, more than half of all closed bodies exhibited were of the Weymann flexible type."

So successful has the Stutz company been with its Weymann body program during the past year that the production of this type of body has been doubled for 1928, and, on the strength of this, the price has been cut approximately $500.

When sore throat rules the house

Mothers should present the facts to a great novelist and let him write of the trials of a woman whose three children and husband are at home for a week or more with a cold.

Fretful little Junior . . . his sniffling sisters . . . the irritable father out of his element . . . the worry of wondering whether it is just a cold or something worse.

Can such trying sieges be avoided? Oftentimes, yes. Listerine, the safe antiseptic, used early has checked many and many a cold before they had a chance to get the upper hand.

At the first sign of irritation use Listerine full strength. As a gargle. As a mouth wash. And occasionally diluted, as a nasal douche.

You will be delighted to find what threatened to be a nasty cold is often gone in a day or two.

The antiseptic action of Listerine explains its ability to check cold weather complaints. The moment it enters the mouth it attacks the disease-producing bacteria that lodge there.

The intelligent thing to do is use it systematically during these cold weather months when "flu" and pneumonia are a constant menace. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

"STREET FOLLIES" AID MINERS

"Street-corner Follies" appeared in Pittsburgh yesterday and the people liked it so well that Bob Hall, rhymster comedian who evolved the show, raised a big bag of money for the relief of destitute families of coal miners. The "follies" gave a vaudeville show from a big motor truck, parked downtown, and the crowds gave generously when the hat was passed. It was a stunt by the National Vaudeville Artists, who will assist the Theater Managers' Association in the benefit for miners' families which will be given tomorrow night at 11:30 o'clock in the Sheridan Square Theater.

"The Sheridan Square benefit will mark the climax in the assistance given by professional people of the stage to assist the mine sufferers," said Eugene L. Connelley, who is directing the arrangements. "All the best artists in town will be there and they will give their best acts. There are a few seats left in desirable parts of the house and all seats are reserved."

The price of each seat is $1.

Bob Hall, who is at the Davis this week, enlisted the California Night Hawks' jazz band and several young women in the show and sallied forth on his motor truck. Between numbers by the Night Hawks the irrepressible comedian told of the suffering of the miners' families and invited the people to contribute. Soon the jingle of coin added a musical staccato to the notes of the ukes and saxaphones.

LATEST BUICK MODELS AT SHOW

Sixteen models, distributed among three series which are designated by their wheelbase lengths, make up the Buick line for 1928, models of which are to be seen at the show.

There are seven models, designed to meet a wide and varied range of requirements, in Series 115. Series 120 includes three models, and Series 128 the remaining six.

A new car in the line this year is Model 47-S, the five-passenger town brougham of Series 120. Its mechanical specifications are identical with those of Model 47, but nickeled headlamps, and several modifications of body treatment, including landau hinges and a special handling of the interior, make luxury the dominant note in this model.

A point about its line on which Buick lays heavy stress is the uniformity of engineering and mechanical detail, as well as of comfort and operating ease. Difference in wheel-base length, and consequently in weight, are the principal distinctions between the cars of Series 115 and those of Series 128.

AUBURN ISSUES NEW MODEL

One of the outstanding body models of the new Auburn line is the new phaeton-sedan on the two straight-eight chassis, the 115 and the 88, says J. A. O'Malley of the Pittsburgh-Auburn Company.

This body type is one that has been heretofore obtainable only on special order from custom coach builders and is a combination full sedan or open touring. The body is so constructed that the top can be easily folded back and the glass can be either dropped flush with the doors or can be left up, giving perfect wind protection for the occupants of both the front and rear seats.

Windshield on this body is of the straight type and car is equipped with a trunk on the rear enclosed in a dust-proof cover. The car has a decidedly custom appearance and will appeal to those who wish to express their individuality in a motor car the same as they do in their homes and clothing.

PROHIBS BOOST PINCHOT FOR PRESIDENT

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot was suggested as a possible candidate for President of the United States at the annual convention of the state Prohibition party, which was held in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

"If Mr. Pinchot should consent, it is proposed that he should be recommended to the national convention as Pennsylvania's favorite son," a resolution adopted at the meeting read in answer to a telegram from the former governor congratulating the party upon its success during latter years.

Four candidates for the coming election also were chosen. They are: George Hart of Scranton, state treasurer; Charles Palmer of Delaware county, auditor general; Mrs. Minnie B. McGrew of Washington, Pa., secretary of internal affairs, and Elisha Kent Kane, United States senator.

The Rev. Dr. B. E. Prugh of Harrisburg, state chairman of the party, opened the session, and George L. Pennock of Lansdowne was chairman of the meeting. Delegates attended from all parts of Pennsylvania except Philadelphia.

TEACHER HURT BY AUTO

Miss Clara Davison, 50, of 1317 Elm street, Wilkinsburg, teacher in the Swissheim School at Swissvale, received head injuries when she was struck by an automobile at Penn avenue and Wood street, Wilkinsburg, today. She was rushed to Columbia Hospital by the driver, Ray A. Evans, of 1310 Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, who was held by police.

SHOOTS DOG AFTER IT ATTACKS, BITES GIRL

Anna Spearline, 10, of 607 Nassau street, was attacked and bitten by a large dog near her home today. She was attended at a physician's office. S. A. Lake, passing in an Animal Rescue League truck at the time, shot the animal.

AFTER THE BATTLE

PEGGY HOPE

After the battle—which, witnesses said, included hurling of cold cream jars and mirrors, arm twisting, kicking and scratching—Peggy Hope, the comedienne, went from a Los Angeles hospital straight to the police station, where she swore out a warrant charging Harry S. Miller, lanky comedian, who has played opposite her many times, with assault and battery. The trouble started during an argument which had its inception op stage.

BOROUGHS VOTE TO MERGE

Residents of Woodlawn and Aliquippa boroughs yesterday voted to merge the two communities, a vote of 3,558 to 807 being cast at a special election. The merged community will be known as Aliquippa. The council bodies of the two boroughs will act as a combined body until sufficient terms have expired to bring the total membership to seven. A. W. Coombs of Woodlawn will be the new burgess and Burgess John Wiegel of Aliquippa will become a council member.

BOY SCOUTS GIVE 4,625 DAYS PUBLIC SERVICE

Local Boy Scouts gave 4,625 days of eight hours each to public service during 1927, principally during the relief work following the North Side gas explosion and during the traffic count conducted by the Better Traffic Committee, Scout Commissioner F. F. Schauer reported at the annual dinner of the Allegheny County Council, West, last night. The executive board officers for 1928 were announced as follows:

President, Lawrence E. Sands; vice presidents, W. P. Snyder, Jr., Harmar D. Denny, Jr., and Judge S. J. Roe; treasurer, E. C. May; assistant treasurer, Shirley P. Austin, and commissioner, F. F. Schauer. Executive board members are George E. Alter, Julian Burdick, W. G. Clyde, Ralph Flinn, Frank J. Lanahan, Chester Lehman, H. C. Milholland, J. H. Nicholson, H. H. Patterson, Charles Painter, C. L. Pierce, Jr., John M. Phillips, A. W. Robertson, Arthur Scully, L. V. Stevens, Irvin D. Wolf and Frank S. Willson.

ROLLS-ROYCE

About "Off-Color" Film on Teeth

FREE 10-day test shows how removing it makes teeth dazzling white, gums firm

THIS offers you a simple scientific test—one judged a most remarkable dental test. It will bring out a brilliance and whiteness in teeth you do not realize they have. It will improve your gums.

Film—enemy of teeth and gums

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film . . . a viscous coat that covers them. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth that cloudy, "off-color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Tooth troubles and gum troubles no[illegible] largely traced to that film. C[illegible]thods fail in successfully [illegible] That's why your teeth [illegible]nattractive.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, dental science has provided effective combatants. Their action is to curdle the film and remove it in gentle safety to enamel.

The teeth you see when that film is removed will amaze you. Ordinary methods fail in these results.

ROMANTIC-MYSTERIOUS-GAY

Mardi Gras

In Old New Orleans

Feb. 21st

Personally conducted all-expense tour

$89.00 Round trip from Cincinnati

THE annual Carnival Season at New Orleans, culminating in a series of street pageants of undreamed of splendor, with promiscuous masking on February 21st, the final day, provides merriment and beauty as our workaday country sees just once a year. Over a hundred years old, this renowned fete becomes more brilliant with each passing year.

The problem of seeing Mardi Gras comfortably and inexpensively is solved by the Personally Conducted, All-Expense Tour of this Railroad under direction of the Kerrick Tours. Special train will leave Cincinnati February 17th at 6:30 p. m., returning February 23rd. Cost of trip, including occupancy of berth at New Orleans, $89.00. ($83.65 if upper berth is used).

Your Train Is Your Home

En route both ways and at New Orleans, you live in perfect comfort on an all-steel, modern L. & N. train. Many special services add to the pleasure and interest of your trip. Let us give you full particulars.

Embrace this opportunity to enjoy also the other varied attractions at New Orleans including winter horse racing now in progress.

Reduced round trip Mardi Gras fares, for transportation only, on regular trains, will also be in effect from this city through to New Orleans, Mobile, Biloxi, Pass Christian and Gulfport.

WILLIAM PENN SUED FOR GEM SHIPMENT

The question of a hotel's liability in receiving packages is being threshed out in Common Pleas Court before Judge Richard W. Martin, where William Braumstein, New York diamond importer, is suing the William Penn Hotel Company for $3,907 worth of diamonds alleged to have been sent to the hotel.

Braumstein alleges that February 26, 1923, he mailed a registered package of diamonds from Altoona, Pa., valued at $3,907, to Joseph Steinberg, business associate, who was stopping at the William Penn Hotel. It is alleged that Steinberg checked out of the hotel before receiving the package and left a forwarding address at Cincinnati, O.

The registered package arrived at the hotel and was receipted for and, Braumstein claims neither he or Steinberg received it.

Mrs. Chas. Zeigler

York, Pa.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken. I was suffering with gastritis, gas would form, my food would sour, causing me to have pains and distress in my stomach. I lost in weight, grew very thin, weak and nervous. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it relieved me of the stomach trouble, my food digested properly, I was free from all distress, gained in weight from 117 to 135 pounds and felt well and strong in every way. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' cannot be excelled as a stomach medicine."—Mrs. Charles Zeigler, 286 E. Gas Ave.

Lawrence Stallings Writing "Tell It to Marines" Sequel For Lon Chaney and Haines

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.

JOSEPH SCHENCK isn't posing for pictures with stars unless he means business—he's far too busy a man. Therefore, when a photographer snapped him talking to Dolores Del Rio we at once put our listening ear to the ground to investigate the reason for the photograph.

It means as soon as Miss Del Rio finishes "The Red Dancer of Moscow" for Fox, she will become a party of the United Artists organization. Of course, as the star of Edwin Carewe's "Ramona," to be released by United Artists, Miss Del Rio is already listed as a U. A. favorite. She has been under contract to Mr. Carewe ever since he discovered her in Mexico.

My understanding, however, is that she now becomes a full-fledged United Artists player along with Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chapline and the rest of the U. A. stars. Her first starring vehicle under the new arrangement will be [illegible] story, "The Bear Tamer's Daughter," an Edwin Carewe production. Finis Fox is adapting the story for the screen, which is laid in the Carpathian Mountains and deals with the taming of the wild bears that roam these wilds.

It's a wise producer who can plan a satisfactory sequel to a box office success. That's what Louis B. Mayer is trying to do with "Tell It to the Marines." This picture is one of the M-G-M favorites that brought home the bacon, if you will pardon my slang. Because of this glowing reputation and because exhibitors are asking for more of the same kind, Mr. Mayer has assigned Lawrence Stallings, author of "The Big Parade" and "What Price Glory," to write a sequel. Mr. Stallings will call his movie "The Marines Have Landed." Lon Chaney, who played a hard-boiled sergeant, and William Haines, who played a recruit in the marines, again will have the leading roles.

One of those yarns that are passed around Hollywood and repeated at this and that luncheon and tea concerns Gloria Swanson. Miss Swanson, as we told our readers, (bragging again), will make "La Paiva" as her next United Artists picture. This was to have been a D. W. Griffith special long, long before the glorious Gloria set eyes on it—and D. W. is still interested in it. Therefore, he may direct La Belle Swanson in "La Paiva" before he begins work on "The Battle of the Sexes." But, dear friends, that is only half of my story. There is a strong rumor that Miss Swanson will make only one more picture for United Artists. After that she will move to another studio and make her own pictures—the release will probably be United Artists.

One look at the still pictures of Sonia Karloff is enough to convince even an outsider that Cecil B. De Mille made no mistake when he signed her on a contract. She, you will remember, is Jean Williams, the Follies girl who came to Hollywood and changed her name and accent so she could get a job. She thought foreign-born stars had a better opportunity. I had begun to think her De Mille association

This Warner Bros. picture, "Don Juan," starring John Barrymore, used costumes worth $300,000. Their loveliness was guarded by safe cleansing with Lux

In Every Great Movie Studio costumes stay New-Looking twice as long through the use of Lux

With millions of dollars invested in beautiful clothes—wardrobe departments filled with thousands of costumes for stars and players and "extras"—and yards upon yards of brilliant materials for hangings and sets—the movies face a fine fabrics problem every woman meets—on a vast scale!

FOR in each motion picture studio, costumes of every sort, from negligees to camping togs, must be kept fresh and new-looking, in spite of long, strenuous wear. It often takes months to "shoot" a picture.

The motion picture studios have tried different washing methods and they have found that the best way to cleanse all their washable things is with Lux!

Through the use of Lux, the studios say, sheer, filmy materials and the more substantial, brilliantly patterned fabrics, too, stay new-looking more than twice as long as when washed any other way! This means a saving of more than a million dollars a year!

As Travis Banton, costume director for Paramount-Famous-Lasky, puts it:

"We no longer discard costumes which have lost their new look. We 'Lux them'—Lux doubles the life of fabrics."

They all do it!

Now every great motion picture studio in Hollywood — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount-Famous-Lasky, Universal, Pathe-DeMille, Fox, First National, United Artists and Warner Bros.—uses Lux in cleansing all washable fabrics! Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

FABRIC DESIGNER AT WORK: BENNETT NATHAN, designer for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, working out a new fabric pattern. "A box of Lux seems like a small thing," says Joseph Rapf, wardrobe supervisor, "but it stands for dollars upon dollars saved in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. To prolong the life of costumes, we insist on Lux, and Lux only."

HOLLYWOOD'S COSTLIEST NEGLIGEE: AILEEN PRINGLE, who wears in "Adam and Evil" this beautiful real lace negligee, once owned by the Empress Alexandra of Russia, supervises its washing in Lux. Historic garments in the movies are cleansed in pure Lux suds.

"SOFT CUSHIONS," STARRING DOUGLAS MACLEAN, uses brilliant silk draperies and hangings. Draperies as well as costumes are washed in Lux in Hollywood studios. As Universal Studios say, "We use Lux to launder fine materials and also heavier fabrics. We get at least double the wear."

8 out of 10 homes in cities from coast to coast use Lux—to save fabrics, save money!

SO SAFE AND A LITTLE GOES SO FAR, IT'S ECONOMY TO USE LUX

RHEUMATISM?

End It by This New and Marvelous Discovery

No matter how longstanding your case may be nor what other remedies you have tried without success, here's one that is designed to afford you relief you never dreamed was possible.

Volz Anti-Rheumin, discovered during the war and perfected by German scientists to combat trench rheumatism, has come to America. Everywhere sufferers of rheumatism, arthritis, lumbago and gout are praising its wonder results.

Many would pay a thousand dollars to rid themselves of those torturous rheumatic pains, yet Volz Anti-Rheumin costs but $2.50 a box.

Your druggist knows its marvelous powers and he will gladly refund your money after you have tried one box if you feel dissatisfied in any way.

There's no excuse for you to suffer another day. Go to your druggist now. Get Volz Anti-Rheumin and you'll praise the day you did it.

On sale at all McCulloch Drug Stores.

ALWAYS DEAD TIRED?

How sad! Sallow complexion, coated tongue, poor appetite, bad breath, pimply skin and always tired. What's wrong? You are poisoned. The bowels are clogged and liver inactive. Take the famous prescription used constantly in place of calomel by men and women for 20 years—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They are harmless yet very effective. A compound of vegetable ingredients and olive oil. They act easily upon the bowels, free the system of poison caused by faulty elimination and tone up liver.

Be beautiful. Have rosy cheeks, clear eyes and youthful energy that make a success of life. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. Know them by their olive color, 15c, 30c and 60c.

BUYERS FLOCK TO REFINED MODELS

All Pittsburgh is insistent that its automotive equipment be of the latest style and most efficient mechanical design, it is indicated by the large number of orders being taken at the annual automobile show, current in Motor Square Garden.

The swelling demand for these new cars follows the introduction of a new style element. Color combinations and the wider use of chromium-plating have given the cars a more attractive appearance. Lines have been softened and for the first time interiors have been made to blend with exterior finishes.

Mechanical advances are numerous among the 38 lines of cars on display. Engines have been made more powerful through higher compression and better manifolding. Oiling and cooling systems have become more efficient, and less vibration will be noted in the cars of 1928, because of the use of rubber mountings and rubber connections on the motor.

The show this year offers the greatest opportunity for motor car ownership to the man with a few hundred dollars, either for direct purchase or down payment. A wider selection of cars within a low price circle has resulted from the many recent reductions. Sixes can now be obtained at the former prices of fours and four-cylinder cars have reached a new low level.

All these cars, in addition to boasting a new low cost, have been improved and refined to such an extent that they are greater values than under the former higher prices. In the higher priced fields also values are greater.

As a further attraction, an entertainment program is being provided by two orchestral units under Charles Marsh. The show hours daily are from 10:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m.

CHARLES A. TUCKER AND LEON GERMAN

Mr. Gorman, general manager, and Mr. Tucker, general sale manager for the Peerless Motor Car Company, will address Western Pennsylvania dealers today in Hotel Schenley, on company plans and policies for this year.

TO TELL PLANS FOR PEERLESS

Executives of the Peerless Motor Car Company, Cleveland, will be guests of honor at a luncheon today in Hotel Schenley. More than 100 Peerless dealers of Western Pennsylvania will attend the meeting, which will be held under the direction of the Steel City Automobile Company, district distributor.

Policies of the Peerless organization and plans for this year will be outlined for the dealers by Leon German, recently appointed general manager for Peerless; Charles A. Tucker, general sales manager, and Frank James of Sweeney & James, national advertising representative for the factory. H. D. Ireman, vice president in charge of sales, and R. F. Lynn, assistant sales manager, of the Steel City Company, will tell of plans of the Pittsburgh organization.

ASK CONSTABLE FOR SPRINGDALE TOWNSHIP

The appointment of William Sonneyfelt as constable of Springdale township to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Albert King after his election in November because of his subsequent employment by the Harwick Coal and Coke Company, was asked in a petition of 23 electors presented yesterday to Judge James R. Macfarlane in Quarter Sessions Court. A hearing will be held February 3.

Chrysler

27th to 3rd place IN 42 MONTHS

THE PUBLIC, AS EVER, REWARDS MOTOR CAR VALUE

The public, in its role of the finest and final judge of motor car value, has unerringly assigned to Chrysler—with its sensational new values—the foremost place in its esteem.

It has raised Chrysler, in just 42 months, from 27th to 3rd place in dollar volume of sales among the makers who comprise the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. No other make, in all the thirty years' history of the industry has been so rewarded.

It is gratifying for Chrysler here to make becoming acknowledgment to thousands upon thousands of automobile buyers the world over.

Chrysler's extra-value-giving plan of Standardized Quality has this endorsement, not in a single field, but in the four principal price fields.

Chrysler serves this demand with forty body styles of four great models—the New "52," the Great New "62," the Illustrious New "72" and the New 112 h. p. Imperial "80"—newly priced from $670 to $6795.

Chrysler pledges itself to maintain and even to excel in the future the quality and value standards of craftsmanship, performance, power, safety and long life which through public favor have raised it to so high a place in the world's greatest industry.

New Chrysler "52"—Seven body styles priced from $670 to $790. Great New Chrysler "62"—Seven body styles priced from $1065 to $1235. Illustrious New "72"—Seven body styles priced from $1545 to $1795. New 112 h. p. Imperial "80"—Fourteen custom body styles priced from $2795 to $6795. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan.

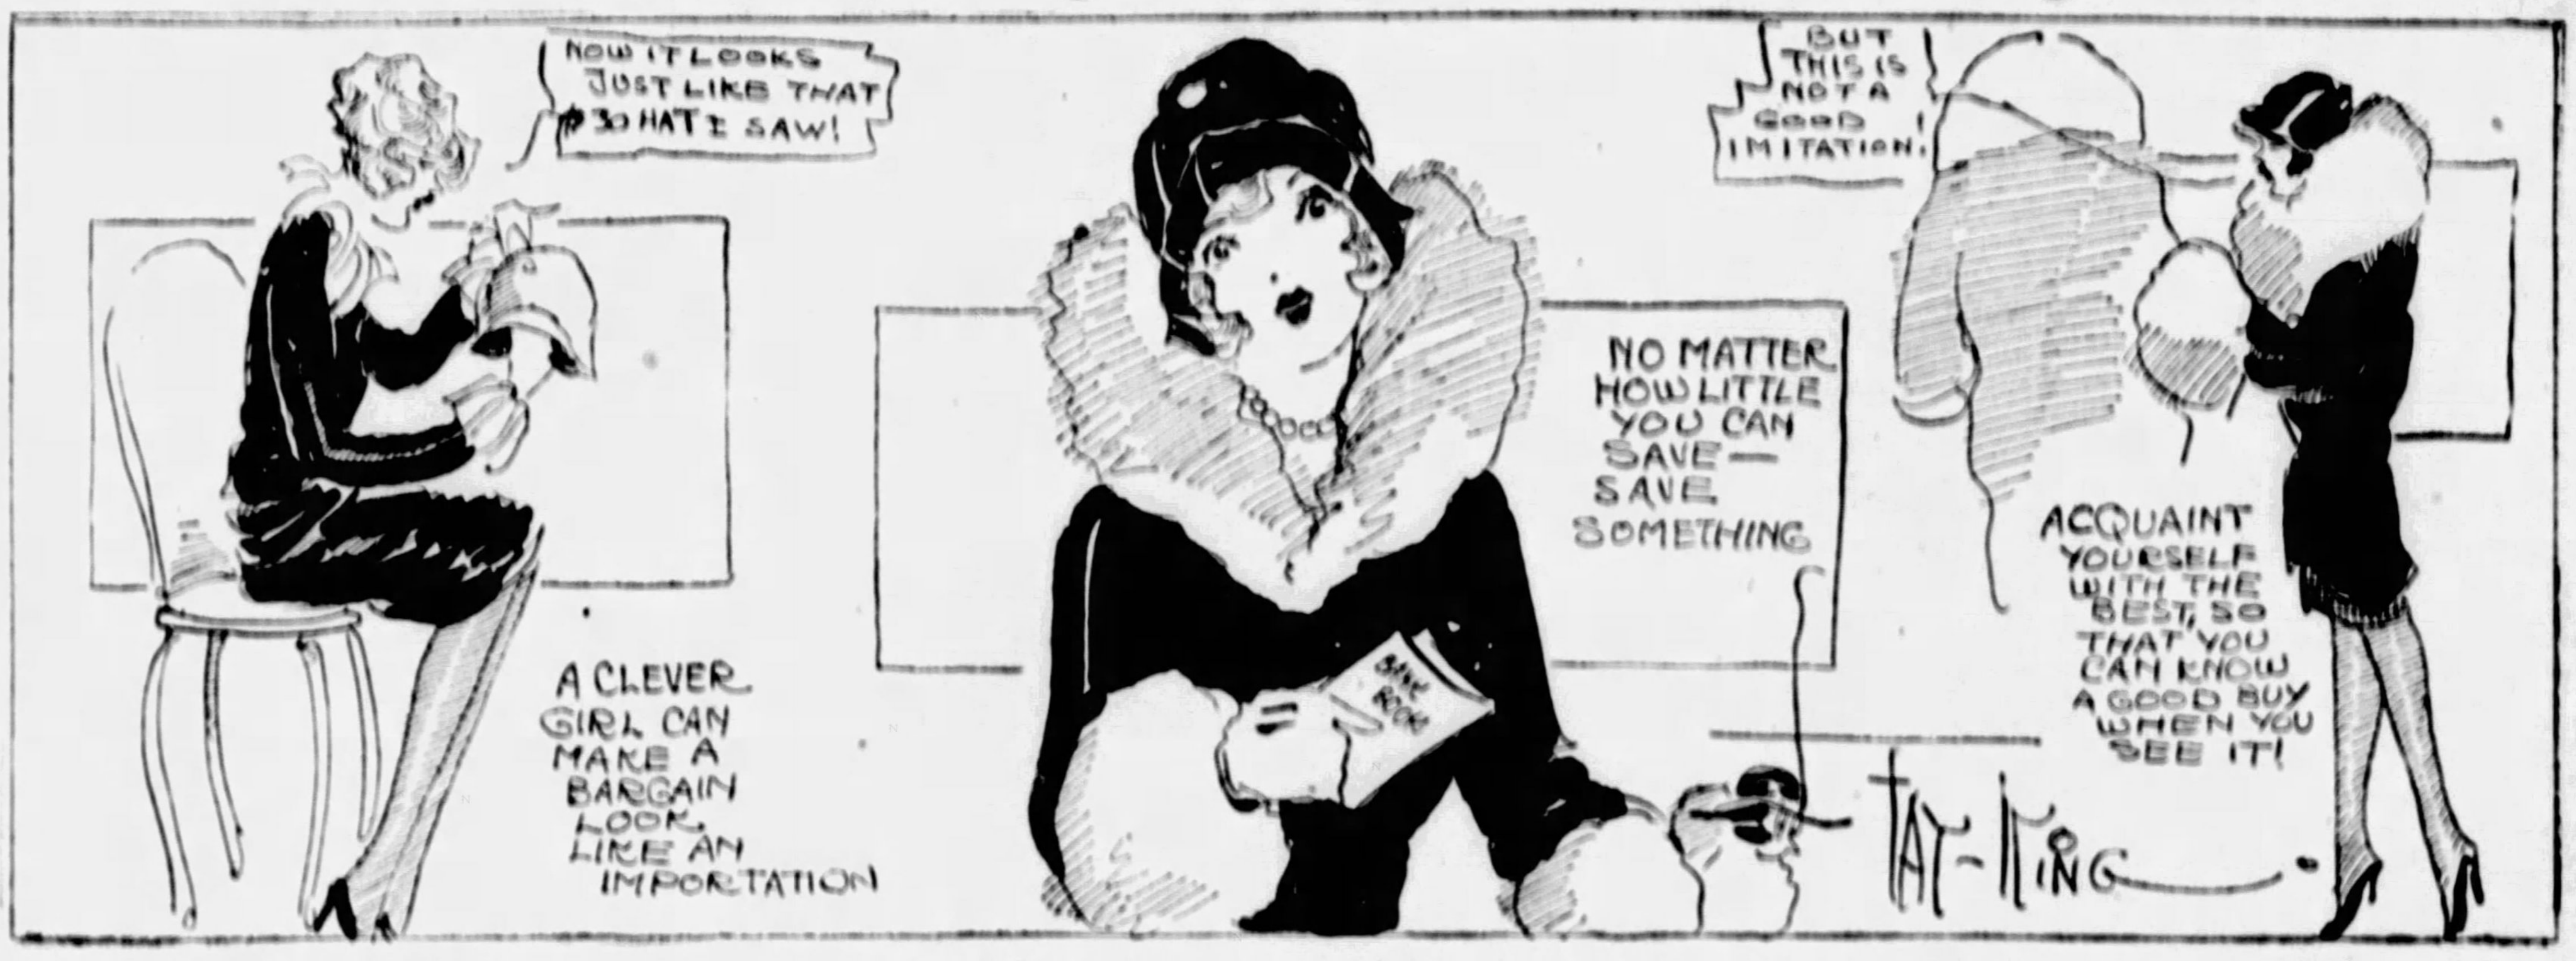
Know Values, Fay King's Key to Bargains



NOW IT LOOKS JUST LIKE THAT $30 HAT I SAW!
A CLEVER GIRL CAN MAKE A BARGAIN LOOK LIKE AN IMPORTATION
NO MATTER HOW LITTLE YOU CAN SAVE— SAVE SOMETHING BANK BOOK
BUT THIS IS NOT A GOOD IMITATION!
ACQUAINT YOURSELF WITH THE BEST, SO THAT YOU CAN KNOW A GOOD BUY WHEN YOU SEE IT!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

TO BE good at bargain hunting one must know the best.

In this day of cunning imitations, when even a smart bird can be fooled by so-called leather and furs, it is absolutely necessary to acquaint yourself with the best in those lines, so that when you see a bargain you may KNOW it's a bargain.

It must be nice to have a large bankroll that can boost you in and doll you up, but it is also a lot of fun to have to make the most of a dollar and see how much it will get you.

Shrewd shoppers keep an eye on good things they cannot afford, and sooner or later they find them priced down to the sizes of their purses. It is always best to patronize good, reliable stores, because the fly-by-night shops have a way of making things look like what they "ain't."

Unless you are a shark at what is what you are apt to find yourself gyped.

Learn materials so that you cannot be fooled. Look at the best first and always, for then, even if you can only afford an imitation, you will know which is the best imitation, having acquainted yourself with the real thing.

No matter how little you can save out of your salary, save that little. Put it away and then when you need that little extra money to help you get something that costs a little bit more but is worth the difference, you will be mighty glad you have that extra money on hand.

A mistake that a lot of girls make is to put too much in little dribs into a number of things they do not need. If they waited a little and put the sum total into one good thing they would have more than their money's worth!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Habits of the Mother Vital to the Baby

EVERYBODY loves a baby. The climax of John Erskine's new book was the birth of the baby.

DR COPELAND

The crowning event in any new home is the arrival of the baby.

I don't happen to have the figures for the whole country, but in New York City 140,000 are born every year. Placed shoulder to shoulder, they would make a line 22 miles long. Some babies!

The hope of the nation lies in the babies. They will determine the fate of the human race. Upon their good health, physical development and growth depends their mental development. Upon that depends the quality of citizenship.

The sort of health a baby will have depends on the mother and her intelligent supervision of the child's welfare. If she does her full duty the baby will thrive. She will do her full duty when she knows what is best for the infant.

What are some of the simple ailments with which she must deal? The first one is constipation.

If the baby is breast-fed it is surprising how the child shares the ailments of the mother. Constipation in the mother is likely to be associated with constipation in the baby.

Wrong feeding on the part of the mother has much to do with the development of this symptom. She must guard her own health, not alone in this particular matter, but in all things.

There is nothing selfish in doing this. She must not make a slave of herself and neglect the out-of-door exercise, recreation and entertainment which are good for her health. She must have good health if the baby is to have it. When she does for herself, then, she does for her offspring.

Perhaps the mother is eating too much fat, or is not drinking sufficient quantities of water. These are two things to keep in mind. They have much to do with constipation.

Irregular feeding is an important factor in the production of constipation in the infant. Diarrhoea, too, may be caused by the same fault. Or, there may be an alteration of diarrhoea and constipation.

In a bottle-fed baby the constipation may be speedily overcome by adding to the feedings some of the right brand of gelatin. A level teaspoonful to a bottle will go far toward correcting the tendency to constipation. It is worth while to remember and try this simple remedy.

The mother should not take castor oil, salts and other cathartics. They are habit forming and, in the long run, harmful.

Frequent vomiting is another symptom detrimental to the baby. There may be such loss of milk as actually to deprive the child of needed nourishment.

This may come from over-feeding, or from too rapid feeding. Struggling to swallow the food there may be taken with it a lot of air. This causes distention of the stomach and vomiting results.

The young mother must learn how to hold the baby so that it will take the food without undue effort and at a rate of supply that will not cause swallowing of air.

Simply because the baby cries is no reason to give it food. The feedings should be at regular intervals, as the doctor will explain. Give a little water now and then. It will satisfy the infant's needs and not cause its little stomach to rebel against an oversupply of food.

Attention to these matters will help your precious baby to thrive. That will make you happy.

Answers to Health Queries

M. S. Q.—What diet do you advise for reducing?

A.—Eat sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

M. S. Q.—How can I fatten my legs?

A.—By gaining weight in general your legs will probably fill out. Exercises such as walking, running, skating and dancing will develop the muscles. Particulars in regard to gaining weight will be sent upon receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A. R. Q.—What is the schedule for figuring the blood pressure? How much may the blood pressure vary either way before it is dangerous?

A.—Varies normally for an adult from 115 to 145, depending upon the patient's age. May be 10 or 15 points above or below without causing anxiety — however, it should have careful attention. Follow your doctor's advice.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THE best exercise for keeping that girlish waistline, is to bend over and throw the candy box out of the window.

Life, like a Christmas stocking, holds only so many thrills; and the girl who has emptied the stocking and sampled all the sweets before she is twenty is going to find the next fifty years just one long anti-climax.

The savage growls over his bones at dinner; the civilized man merely gnashes his teeth over a soft-boiled egg at breakfast.

HELEN ROWLAND

When a wife ceases to be a stimulant and becomes an irritant, a man promptly rushes out and looks around for a counter-irritant.

"When a woman gets kissed by me, she's KISSED'" remarked the latest successful bigamist. But that, dear heart, is every man's secret illusion about himself.

Apparently, no girl of today plans to remain married long enough to "get into a rut" or to let any man become a positive habit with her.

When a woman is feeling blue or discouraged, she can always go to the nearest beauty parlor and have her spirits lifted and her vanity re-charged.

One reason why a man never tells a woman anything, is because he knows that the simple truth would be so much less thrilling than the shocking things she THINKS about him.

A man loves to "give things" to a woman; but when it comes to settling her monthly bills and charge accounts, he loses all his enthusiasm; there is nothing really picturesque or sensational about THAT.

* * *

The only way in which love-making seems to have changed that today a kiss lasts about twice as long and a love-affair about half as long.

Correct Measurements

ALMOST every week come letters from girls and from women, stating their height, and asking what the correct weight should be for one of their height.

We'd be just a mind reader if we could tell from where we sit what all these people should weigh. Because we should weigh according to our shapes, not according to any standard set of scales.

Take, for instance, two girls, both standing 5 feet 3 inches tall. One girl has big, heavy bones in her framework. The other has small bones. Now don't you see, the girl with big bones has to weigh more than the girl with small ones, or her bones wouldn't be nicely covered and she would look what we call "rawboned"? Whereas, if the one with the little bones weighed as much as the other she might look plump.

And another thing, an older person usually weighs more than a girl in her twenties, while a girl under 18 might still possess a childish tubbiness. So you've got to stop and take your framework and your age into consideration when you gaze into the face of a scale.

And there's another thing to think about when you want to affix your weight. Study your type of beauty and see if you'd look best curved in or out. Some faces are most attractive when childishly rounded, while others look puffy with an ounce too much of surplus flesh. If your face is broad and short, you had best be careful about losing weight. Because if you lose weight all over, you'll lose it from your face also, and a broad face looks bad filled with hollows.

Now here is a scale to measure your shape by. It's a pretty fair average, as near as we can come to it, but remember all the things you've been warned of, before you despair if it doesn't conform to your measurements.

Height	5 ft. 3½ inches
Weight	120 pounds
Neck	12½ inches
Chest	32 inches
Waist	25 inches
Hips	36 inches
Thigh	22 inches
Calf	13½ inches
Ankle	8 inches
Upper arm	10.8 inches
Lower arm	8.8 inches
Wrist	6.2 inches

These measurements of course are for women between the ages of 18, say, and the early thirties. Before and after that, your conscience has to be about the only guide you have to your weight. And after all, it really does not matter so much how much you weigh, if your weight is evenly distributed. It's mostly when weight bunches up on you that it becomes noticeable.

Piles Disappear Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in hundreds of cases with a marvelous record of success such a wonderful record that HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from May Drug Co. today. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and must do the same for you or money back.

AUTO INDUSTRY WINS THROUGH FAILURES

Of all the visitors at the automobile show, few outside the industry sponsoring that exhibit appreciate the years of toil, of testing, and of endless experimentation which have made possible, at prices within the reach of all, these luxurious automobile creations of today, comments E. T. Strong, president, Buick Motor Company. The automotive industry stands alone among all the multifarious industries of the world, both in the extent of this experimenting and in such aggressive self-improvement.

"It is considerably easier to sell a bar of soap than to sell an automobile," continued Mr. Strong. "In fact, with the exception of a home, the automobile is the largest single item in the average family's purchases, and this fact is reflected in the care with which cars are chosen. The size of the automobile investment has spurred competition among the makers of motor cars, and thus has been an important factor in the constant improvement witnessed by passing years.

"This same vast difference between unit values also has necessitated safeguards against dissatisfaction with the product, another important goal of automotive experimentation. The sale of an unsatisfactory bar of soap is trifling, in its power to harm the maker, compared to an unsatisfactory sale of so large a unit as a motor car. The correspondingly deeper ill-will resulting from the latter sale may make itself felt very seriously, and so manufacturers have willingly undertaken heavy expenditures to insure satisfaction.

"Motor cars of today are literally built upon failures—not failures of the product itself, but failures of experimental material and designs, of which the public has known little or nothing—failures in the laboratory. Only the experimental men of our automobile manufacturing concerns can appreciate how aptly the phrase 'construction by destroying' fits the long tedious process which has given us our motor cars. Automobile makers have had to maintain a constant and costly search for the new and better things, while at the same time producing and marketing the best of which they were capable at the moment. All this has gone on behind the scenes.

"Each ensuing year has seen marked improvement in motor cars. Twenty, and even 10 years ago, these improvements had to do largely with mechanical features. The fundamental design of the internal combustion engine, and of the motor car itself, were evolving rapidly. Transmissions were undergoing basic changes, and so were steering gear, springs and many other units, not only in design, but in materials as well.

"In that day, many of these changes were little short of revolutionary. It required years of practical demonstration upon the road to vindicate them and bring about the condition which exists today."

ELOPERS TO BE RETURNED

The week-old honeymoon of Charles Woolheater and his 15-year-old bride, Eleanor Modestine, of 260 Flowers avenue, was halted by police of Johnstown, Pa., it was reported in Morals Court today, where the charge of harboring a minor made against Adam Woolheater, foster father of the groom, his daughter, Mrs. Marie Staley, and Miss Catherine Forsaith, of 114 Glen Caladh street, was scheduled for a hearing. The case was continued until Friday and the elopers are expected to be back in Pittsburgh at that time.

ADDRESS OAKLAND-PONTIAC DEALERS TODAY

C. A. REHTMEYER M. E. ZETTERHOLM W. R. TRACY W. M. CHAMBERLAIN E. M. LUBECK

Factory and Pittsburgh representatives of the Oakland Motor Car Company today address more than 300 Oakland-Pontiac dealers on plans and policies for this year. A luncheon precedes the meeting, with a banquet afterward. Speakers include Mr. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales; Mr. Chamberlin, sales promotion manager; Mr. Lubeck, western sales manager; Mr. Zetterholm, Pittsburgh district manager, and Mr. Rehtmeyer for the district distributor.

WILL OUTLINE OAKLAND PLANS

W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales, and other officers of the Oakland Motor Car Company, today will address more than 300 Oakland-Pontiac dealers on 1928 plans and policies of the company. The meeting will be preceded by a luncheon and in the evening the dealers will be the guests of the factory executives at a banquet in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

At the business session, also to be held at the Athletic Association, speakers, besides Mr. Tracy, will be E. M. Lubeck, Western sales manager; William M. Chamberlin, sales promotion manager; M. E. Zetterholm, Pittsburgh district manager, and C. A. Rehtmeyer, general manager of the Englert-Rehtmeyer Automobile Company, Pittsburgh distributor.

During the afternoon the dealers will be shown motion pictures of the Oakland and Pontiac factories where manufacturing facilities have been increased through a tripling of plant investment and doubling of floor space. The pictures will show the thousands of mechanics, artisans and laborers, representing the largest payroll in Oakland history, at the countless operations necessary to produce a complete motor car.

"The confidence with which the Oakland Motor Car Company regards business prospects during the present year is reflected in its tentative production schedule for 1928," said Mr. Tracy. "Last year we sold 191,000 automobiles, advancing from ninth place in point of sales volume during 1926 to that of fifth in 1927. During the present year we expect to sell 270,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes."

GRAHAM-PAIGE DEALERS MEET

Sixty Graham-Paige automobile dealers attended a convention held yesterday in the Rittenhouse, when H. Krohn, general sales manager of the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation, spoke on 1928 activities for his company. Mr. Krohn also told of plans of the three Graham Brothers for their newest product, the Graham-Paige motor car which is now being shown here for the first time at the automobile show. Motion pictures showing production methods at the Graham-Paige plant were shown. The convention was in charge of the Pittsburgh Paige Company.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

AUTO OFFICIALS VIEW '28 WITH OPTIMISM

Two leading executives in the American automotive industry in Pittsburgh today declare that this is to be the world's greatest automobile year and that Western Pennsylvania offers one of the best of the country's markets. The visitors here to attend the motor show are W. R. Tracy, vice president of the Oakland Motor Car Company in charge of sales, and Leon German, new general manager of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation.

"The fact that we have reached second place in sales in Pennsylvania in the output of the Oakland-Pontiac factory pleases us particularly with this territory," said Mr. Tracy. "We reached our maximum of production in December and now in January find ourselves swamped by orders. This is an unusual condition so early in the season. It shows that people are buying more new cars and proves that automobile owners are overcoming the terrors of winter driving.

"Roads are better and highway departments have systematic methods for cleaning off the snow, but we also believe that the new cross-flow radiator in our cars has much to do with it. The new radiator was our surprise this year and the public has sensed the value of the improvement."

"A prosperous outlook in the automobile industry holds up the torch of hope and optimism in every other branch of trade," declared Mr. German. "Our industry is a business stabilizer which means prosperity for the other great manufacturers, for the jobbers, retailers and the transportation companies. Car buying is always a pretty good index to the trend of the times and the overwhelming demand this season could not exist if there was not a sound basis for unexampled prosperity ahead."

Both officials praised their district agencies in Pittsburgh and declared that the volume of sales here was in no small measure due to the energy of the local sales forces.

ARSON RING JURY CONFINED

The jury selected yesterday in Criminal Court for the trial of Meyer Letwin, of Harvard street, and Harry Frank, of Webster avenue, alleged members of an arson ring, on charges of conspiracy and arson, was ordered confined by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Kittanning, who declared the importance of the case made the move necessary.

Judge Graff sat during the former trial which ended in the discharge of the jury Sunday morning, December 18, after a hopeless deadlock and the illness of two women jurors.

This discharge, without a sitting judge or court clerk present, constituted an acquittal, according to a special plea by defense counsel, which was denied yesterday by Judge Graff over the protests of defense counsel. Selection of a jury occupied the remainder of the day. The trial was resumed, with District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner prosecuting the case, opposed by Attorneys William H. Coleman and Louis Little.

Letwin and Frank conspired to burn the millinery store of Mrs. Carrie M. Deverts, 455 East Ohio street, North Side, after the insurance had been increased, and were trapped in the store July 21 by County Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr while preparing to start a fire, according to the charges. They are also accused of conspiring to burn a rooming house in Pressly street.

HELD FOR MATRICIDE, HANGS SELF IN JAIL

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Wise Bailey, 30, under arrest for the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Enoch Tolliver, and her husband, his stepfather, at their home at Pierpont, near Mullens, last December 26, hanged himself today in the Kanawha county jail. He was brought here last night by state police from Ashland, Ky., where he was arrested last Saturday.

A Church-a-Day Will's Idea of Senate Play

YUMA, Ariz., Jan. 25.—If we are going to have an amusement hour in the Senate every day I want a chance at it. I would denounce the Catholics Monday, the Baptists Tuesday, the Methodists both North and South Wednesday, the Presbyterians Thursday, Friday would be society day, the Episcopals; Saturday would be a general summing up against any denomination I had forgot during the week. Not that I have it in for any of these, but if religion must be the butt of our legislative amusement I would at least stick to our Constitution and be unbiased.

Having Earned His Service Wings, He Engages With A Flying Circus

"Slim" Lindbergh's first jump for life with a parachute was described by America's premier aviator in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday. It was while completing his course at Kelly Field that he was in collision 'way up with another plane and was compelled to resort to the 'chute. He was lucky in escaping the falling planes and making a safe landing. His official report of the incident disclosed the thoroughness that since has characterized him.

Inside Facts About 'Chutes

By COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH.

CHAPTER XVIII.

ALTOGETHER, about 57 lives have been saved by parachutes in government service. In every instance the jump took place because of fog, engine failure while flying over unfavorable country, collision of planes or other very definite emergencies. They say in the service that any flier who jumps to save his life becomes a member of the "Caterpillar Club." This is because the parachute is made entirely of silk, and silk comes from caterpilars. All the 57 members of this club feel that their lives have been saved by the silkworm caterpillar!

There is a saying in the service about the parachute: 'If you need it and haven't got it, you'll never need it again!" That just about sums up its value to aviation.

For two of the last days we were on tactical maneuvers with the other branches. Half of our number were assigned to defend the bombers and observation planes, while the other half attacked them. When we met a lively combat ensued and the air would be full of pursuit planes in every conceivable position, each trying to get on the tail of an enemy plane without being first shot down itself.

At night in the barracks we would argue about which side won the war, but whenever one of us would demonstrate to the enemy that she had been shot down in battle, another would interpose the claim that he had put the attacking ship out of commission several minutes previous to the combat.

"Lindy" Commissioned

When graduation day arrived 18 of us remained of the 104 cadets who started the course at Brooks a year before. We were presented with our wings and commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Service Reserve Corps. That night we gave a farewell dinner in San Antonio and for the last time assembled together.

The next day we departed from Kelly.

I went by rail to St. Louis and took an O.X.-5 Standard out for a barnstorming trip to Illinois, Missouri and Iowa. The Postoffice Department had just advertised a number of contract air mail routes for bid, one of which was between St. Louis and Chicago by way of Springfield, Ill. I decided to barnstorm around the country until it was determined which bidder would be assigned the contract. The Robertson Aircraft Corporation had placed a bid and offered me the position of chief pilot if they were successful in getting the contract.

After returning from Iowa I flew on several flying circus dates and made a few short cross-country flights to nearby cities.

A Thrilling Drop

On June 2, while testing a commercial plane built at Lambert Field, I was forced to make a second emergency jump. I had flown the ship for a few minutes the previous week and on this occasion was testing it for various maneuvers. I had completed everything except tailspins, but when I attempted a right spin the plane refused even to start, so after a second attempt with the same result I gave that up and tried one to the left. The ship fell in easily and when I reversed the controls after a half turn, came out at once.

I then put it into a second left spin and held the controls in a spinning position during two complete turns. When I reversed them they had no apparent effect and using the engine was of no assistance. After trying for 1500 feet to bring the ship out of the spin, I rolled over the right side of the cockpit, and since I had jumped only about 350 feet above the ground, I pulled the rip cord as soon as the stabilizer had passed.

The chute opened quickly, but while it was functioning I had fallen faster than the spinning ship. On its next revolution the plane was headed directly towards the chute. How close it had passed will never be known, for the risers leading up from my harness were twisted and swung me around as the ship passed. However, less than 25 feet intervened between the wing and my parachute.

Soon Back in Air

I watched the plane crash in a grain field and turned my attention to landing. A strong wind was drifting me towards a row of high tension poles and it was necessary to partially collapse the chute in order to hasten the descent and land before striking the wires.

I landed rather solidly in a potato patch and was dragged several feet and over a road before several men arrived and collapsed the chute. In addition to the strong wind and rough air, collapsing or "cutting" the chute so close to the ground had caused a very rapid descent, and my shoulder had been dislocated in landing.

In July I went on two weeks' active duty at Richards Field, Missouri, where I instructed on Jennies and D. H.-4s. In August I flew a Curtiss Oriole to Nevada, Mo., to carry passengers during the Missouri National Guard encampment.

While at Nevada I received a proposition to fly in a circus in Colorado and, as there was no immediate prospect of starting work on the mail route, I accepted and when the encampment ended I flew the Oriole back to St. Louis and took a train west.

On arriving at the field, a few miles east of Denver, I discovered the plane I was to fly to be the same Lincoln Standard that Lynch and I had flown to Montana three years before. We did a little barnstorming along the eastern slope of the Rockies preliminary to the start of our flying circus.

With Flying Circus

We had contracted to exhibit before a number of fairs in Colorado and there was nothing barred in the exhibitions. We put on everything the committee was willing to pay for. At the smaller places we used only one plane, but at the more important exhibitions two were required.

We flew to the town where a fair was taking place about one day before we were to exhibit. In that way everything was in readiness for the circus and the next morning there was no delay in our performance.

We started with wing-walking. The performer would climb out of the cockpit and walk along the entering edge of the wing to the outer bay strut, where he climbed up onto the top wing, and stood on his head as we passed the grandstand.

After finishing his sunts on the wing he would go to the landing gear and from there to the center section, where he sat while the plane looped and did Jenny Immelmans. From the center section he went to the tail and then, unless it was an unusual occasion, the wing-walking exhibition was over.

(Tomorrow Col. Lindbergh will tell of stunts in the flying circus and incidents of a barnstormer's life.)

WOMAN VICTIM OF "BUNCO" MACHINE SLAPS PRISONER

LOST LIFE SAVINGS, USES HER FIST

Because he swindled Mrs, Mary Kopjak, of 614 West Robinson street, out of her life savings in selling her a "money-making" machine for $2,300, Trafim Evanoff, 37, huge Russian, must spend the next 10 years behind the bars.

As Evanoff was being led back to the county jail yesterday, Mrs. Kopjak, a small, elderly woman, brushed past his guards and struck him a stinging blow on the face with her fist.

A jury in Criminal Court found him guilty in 30 minutes today and Visiting Judge William T. Darr sentenced him to 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary.

It was the second conviction against Evanoff, alias Terry Evans, in two days. Yesterday he was convicted of robbing Mrs. Sarah Lindenburg of $3,980 in her store at 2944 Smallman street. For that misdemeanor he was sentenced to one to three years.

Because she sat with her legs crossed on the front porch of her home, her husband cursed her and ran into the house, embarrassing her in front of company, Mrs. Edith W. She also testified her husband slapped her face in front of friends and that he drank excessively. The couple often went two weeks at a stretch without speaking, the wife testified.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by Harvey J. Boyle

JAMES is the colored bootblack in Guy's barber shop in Webster avenue. He is a quaint bit of the picturesque South. He plays a ukelele when not otherwise engaged and his favorite song is "Love, Careless Love." One line is especially descriptive, showing a power of expression: "I'm going back to the used-to-be."

The song is a story of caution in a very dangerous game. Stung by Cupid, the lyricist, nevertheless, remembers old scars and deems it wise to be just a little careless in his new amour instead of being in earnest.

The song goes along with a shave and the pleasant part, so well are the immutable laws of harmony followed, that the barber, in stropping his razor, keeps a perfect rhythm with the time of the melody. Unconsciously, the man getting shaved, finds himself doing a soft-shoe pitter-patter on the foot rest of the barber chair.

ATTENDANCE at musical shows, which come this way, strengthen the impression that chorus girls are in danger of losing their voices from non-use. The modern notion of the producers is to have a song sung by a tenor or a soprano with the chorus girls dancing only. This comes, no doubt, from a growing conviction that nature is not so prodigal as to endow the chorines with pulchritude, dancing ability and a voice all at once.

Perhaps, too, there was a growing suspicion among the worldly-wise producers that the butter and egg men and the tired business men seldom paid much attention to the singing of the chorus.

JACK ALTMAYER and Roy G. Saunders, of Turtle Creek, lay claim to unusual distinction, according to a joint petition sent in by mail. They claim to be the first Pittsburgh district men to be struck in 1928 by a hit-and-run auto driver—the accident occurring January 1.

This record will stand unless the president of the Hit and Run Drivers' Association enters a protest. The Hit and Run Drivers' Association is one of the fastest growing secret societies of the country.

BILL MARTIN and Mike Canavan were delivering tax bills in Logan street the other day. Bill, a former reporter, is not a big man, but Mike Canavan is fairly sizeable. This fact contributes mystery to the episode of the colored woman, who, pursued by a colored man, ran toward Martin and Canavan, passed up the latter, and threw her arms around the former, while declaring: "Yo all ah mah potectah."

While Martin could not help be flattered by this exhibition of sterling confidence, at the same time he could not entirely dismiss a vague wondering why the bigger Canavan was not picked upon.

THE work of the riveting gang on a new building always attracts passers-by. On the William Penn Hotel job the man who tosses the red-hot rivets to the catcher a floor above made one bad pass in the 10 attempts witnessed. Yet, had John Gruber been present, we feel certain he would have scored it a passed rivet instead of a wild pitch.

Lily Keeps Her Date With Drummond For Tea

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. She marries Pat. Lily tried, and their domestic ship sailed smoother for a few months. One day Lily met SUE CAIN, an old friend, on the street. Sue invited her to a card party. Lily, without funds, went to a store and tried to charge some clothes to her father. She was informed her mother had left word that "Mrs. Patrick France could not charge things to Mr. Lexington." Staley Drummond pays her bill at Angouleme's and Lily finds that Florence is bookkeeper there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE raised the level black eyebrows that were so startling with her bright red-gold hair. "Nothing's the matter with me," she told him. "I'm just letting you know how I've felt all summer long about living in this two-by-four, slaving my life away for you. . . . I've been thinking things over lately, and it just strikes me that I don't get much out of life."

He nodded his handsome dark head, his eyes intent. "No, you don't get much out of it—that's true," he agreed with her. "But you know, I told you things would be like this, if you married me. I saw what you had on Montpelier road, and I knew what I could give you. Not very much. I honestly can't even afford this flat, tiny as it is. We ought to be living in two rooms somewhere."

When he had gone without giving her a kiss or another word, Lily felt more blue and discouraged than ever.

She got up and went into the bedroom to take off her wraps. On the dresser lay the nickel which she had intended to use when she telephoned Staley Drummond to tell him she was not going to meet him the next day. . . . But now she began to wonder if she wasn't very silly not to meet him, after all. How could it possibly harm anyone if she saw Staley Drummond for an hour or two—if she forgot for an hour or two the trials and tribulations of the little flat? . . . Staley would probably take her some place for tea.

Afternoon tea once more!—The soft music, the shaded lights, the luxury of a waiter to serve you!—The ride in Staley's big purring roadster. All the things that once had seemed so ordinary, and now seemed so luxurious, so wonderful, to her!

There were still red marks on her wrists where the cans and potatoes had lain against them. There was a burn from a flat-iron on one finger. A can-opener had slipped and cut another.

"My terrible hands!" Lily thought, looking at them. She remembered how Staley had called them lilies in the old days of their engagement. . . . The days when she had worn his enormous diamond upon her third finger, and rubbed perfume into her palms to make them smell like lilies.

With a long sigh she went into the bathroom and began to scrub them with the nail brush. She took a whole hour to manicure them, but even then they did not look at all like the lily-white hands of the old days before she married Pat and settled down for him.

The next afternoon she peeled the vegetables for supper before she started to get dressed to go out to meet Staley.

She laid a cloth on the little blue-green painted table and set it. She trimmed the chops and laid them on the broiling rack so that she could pop them into the oven the minute she got home.

"And I must be home at 15 minutes after 6," she told herself, waiting outside Staleys' office building at 5 o'clock with the crowds hurrying past her and the lights coming out above the street.

Staley was only a minute or two late. Without saying anything he came up to her, took her arm and together they went through the crowds to the place where his car was parked.

"The great wide-open parking spaces, eh?" Lily asked gaily as they climbed into the car, and he laughed at that, his eyes twinkling.

"Seems like old times, Lily," were the first words he said to her when they were out of the thickest of the traffic and going along Perry street as if they were skimming clouds.

"Please don't talk about old times," Lily answered shakily, "if you do, I'm afraid I'll cry—"

She did not mean old times with him, in particular. She was thinking of all the things that the sight of Staley and his car brought back to her—moonlight picnics with the old crowd, dances, theater parties—

But Staley misunderstood her. "Never mind, dearest," he said quickly. "You've made a mistake, but perhaps we can get it all straightened out so that you'll be happy again."

"Gracious!" Lily thought. "Now he thinks I'm getting ready to leave Pat!—Just because I came out for a ride with him—"Oh, my Aunt Eliza!"

She felt Staley's hand on her shoulder, and her whole body stiffened. She didn't want his arm there around her, his hand pressing against her. . . . She might be thoroughly angry with Pat, and sick of the way she had to work for him and go without things. But that didn't mean that she wanted Staley Drummond to touch her.

She sat up straight in her seat. "It's just that I have to work so hard, Staley." She tried to make things clear to him. "And I don't have anything — Why, do you know, I haven't any decent talcum powder, even, any more, and only one little measly bottle of perfume!—That sounds silly to you, I know, to rave over little things like that, but they mean a lot to a girl!—I shouldn't talk like this to you."

They were in Macomber Park now, and Staley suddenly stopped the car under some trees beside the little lake there. "I can't talk while I'm driving," he explained.

He looked at her closely through the thick purple dusk. "Poor little kid!" he said, and once more his hand pressed her shoulder. "I shouldn't have let you marry anyone but me, should I, after all? I'd have taken care of you—Poor little hands." His hands slipped down and covered her bare ones that were folded on her knee.

Across the park some bells rang, low and clear in the still evening air.

"It's 6 o'clock," thought Lily. "Too late for tea." She was sorry. She had been looking forward to the glittering tea-hour in some fine restaurant more than she had been looking forward to seeing Staley Drummond—far more.

He lifted her hands, bending back the fingers one by one.

"Cuts and bruises," he said. "Well, I suppose some women ought to work, Lily. Maybe you ought to, too. But, somehow, I never have thought of you as having to work the way you evidently do—It doesn't seem right to me, do you know?"

Lily gave a long sigh. It was a relief to have someone realize at last how hard she did work. And it was even deeper relief to know that someone sympathized with her because she had had to turn from a butterfly to a grub.

"Take me home, Staley," she said. "I have to have dinner on the table in just a little while—or supper, as the France family calls it."

"All right, I will," Staley answered. "But first of all I want to say this to you—"

CHAPTER XXXVII.

A FULL minute went by—and sometimes a minute seems like a very long time—while Staley held her by the wrists and peered at her through the brown darkness without saying a word.

Lily began to be impatient. "It must be five minutes after six by now," she thought, wondering why he did not go on with what he had to say to her, "and I've just GOT to be home in 10 minutes to get Pat's supper!" She could picture Pat, sitting in his easy chair reading the evening paper and glancing up at the clock now and then.

"I must go, Staley," she said, and drew her hands away from him. "What were you going to say?"

Staley looked at her a moment more through the thickening darkness. "Nothing," he said quickly, "nothing that mattered particularly. Tell you some other time."

He started his car and they drove back to Boyle street in silence. At the corner of her own street he stopped and she got out, looking quickly around first, to see if Pat were in sight.

"Good-bye," she said, and held out her hand.

Staley took it.

"Good-bye, Lily," he said, looking around the street as she had done, to see if anyone were watching them. Then he bent his head and kissed the hand that he held.

"I don't know why—but I feel worse about your hands than I do about anything else," he observed. "I hate to think of you scrubbing floors and peeling potatoes, somehow—"

Then he was gone, and Lily was going up the street past all the little houses and the apartments where dozens of other women were peeling potatoes and doing the hundred and one homely tasks that women spend their lives in doing, for the most part—and doing very cheerfully, too.

But Lily did not give the other women a thought. She was thinking only of herself as she walked along—and by the time she reached the door of her own little flat she was very, very sorry for herself.

She looked at her hands again, as she fitted the key into the lock. How rough they were, and how red across the knuckles! A nail was broken, too.

With a deep sigh she pushed open the door, and switched on the lights in the sitting room.

Pat was not at home, but in the kitchen was a huge, lumpy-looking object covered with heavy brown wrapping paper. A card was tied to it, and Lily began to smile as she read what was written upon it:

"With all good wishes to Pat and Lily from the France family."

"This certainly is some time to send a wedding present—after we've been married for four months!" she said to herself, tearing off the heavy paper wrappings and trying to figure out what the shining white glass-and-enamel machine under them was.

Then she saw that a name was painted upon it — "Laundry Queen." It was a washing machine! . . . They had been saving up all summer long to buy her a washing machine! . . . So that she could go on working herself to death, washing Pat's clothes!

While she stood there laughing at it, she heard the front door open. Pat's steps came across the sitting room and he stood in the doorway looking at her.

ARAB, YOUR HAVING A BROTHER IN THE NAVY WAS NEWS TO ME!
WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL ME ABOUT HIM BEFORE ?
I DIDN'T THINK YOU WOULD BE INTERESTED!
WHAT MAKES YOU THINK I'M INTERESTED?
WHAT ?

"My dear, I'm all iRATE and IRrigated—I ACtually AM, because ARab is SIMply the LIMit. PRACticably EV'ry time I mention his BROTHer who's in the NAvy, my dear, he seems to have the perVERted iDEA that I'm THOReughly inTRIGUED with the subjec'. I mean it's so perfectly riDIC, because ARab's BROTHer is no GOOSEflesh to ME, my dear, and if there's a STRONG family reSEMblance between him and ARab I MUST say I'm not CRAving parTICularly to MEET the odd soul, only after ARab TOLD me about him I thought the ONly poLITE thing was to SEEM INT'rested or something because after ALL, my dear, it's just COMmon poLITEness. Well, ANYways, wouldn't it be SIMply diVINE if he should turn OUT to be atTRACtive because I mean what this town NEEDS, my dear, is more atTRACtive MEN—am I RIGHT? I mean don't you HONestly get just too TIRED of BARging round with the SAME youthful PIPsqueaks who you've known for AEons, my dear, and who are just CONsecrated on GIN and PETting parties instead of on the SErious side of life or something—you know the TYPE! But prob'ly the REASon ARab is so RETicent, sort of, about this BROTHer of his is because he's JEALous of him or something, which is why I conCEIVED the IDEA he might be quite THRILLing-looking, my dear, which I think would be SIMply diVINE because I CRAVE a new WOOer at this point, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Madge Decides to Bring Philip Veritzen and His Son Noel Together

MARY kept her word with admirable promptitude. Upon the same afternoon which had witnessed my request, she brought Noel into the library where I was working over some memoranda for his distinguished father, and, with one hand lightly laid upon his arm, bowed mockingly to me.

"I don't know what she's going to do with you, Noel," she said, "but she asked for an interview a-l-lone—with you, and whatever Queen Madge's commands, they must be obeyed. Cheer up, lad! I think she'll return you intact. She doesn't look in a savage mood today."

The young violinist looked after her as she went out of the room with an expression so fatuous, as well as so puzzled, that I had hard work keeping my lips from quirking into a smile. But I knew that any hint of amusement on my part would startle and offend the sensitive youth whose inferiority complex is as pronounced as is Mary Harrison's ego.

"She's always jesting," he said with an unconscious little sigh as his inamorata closed the door after her. "I never am quite sure what she means."

I made the mental comment that if his wooing succeeded and some time in the coming years he should win his lady he still would be saying the same thing. Mary Harrison's chief charm to men is her inscrutability.

But I ventured no such comment to him—instead, struck a lighter note.

"I'm not sure she always knows what she means herself," I told him, laughing. Then I spoke quickly, seriously:

"I have something very important to say to you, and I must not delay it for fear we may be interrupted. Please forgive me for touching upon something which under other circumstances would be unpardonable for me to mention, but about which I must speak to you."

His eyes widened in startled consternation for an instant, and I wondered if he thought I meant to forbid him further association with Mary. Then the inherent and trained courtesy of the youth took possession of him.

"Dear lady," he said with a low bow, "do you not know that you may say anything you please to me."

"That is very sweet of you, Noel," I returned, "and I am going to take you at your word. Here is my dilemma. Your father is bringing Mrs. Underwood and her daughter down to the farmhouse on Saturday. Of course, I must invite him to stay to the welcome home dinner which we always prepare for the Underwoods. Now equally, of course, we also want you to attend that dinner. But I did not wish you to do so without warning you that your father would be here."

He had started and thrown up his head proudly when I mentioned his father. But by the time I had finished his shoulders were drooping and an expression of infinite sadness had crept over his face.

"That is very kind of you, Mrs. Graham," he said, "but I think I ought to stay away from the dinner."

I took my courage in both hands and put a bold question.

"'Ought to' or 'want to'?" I asked.

He flushed painfully.

"'Ought to,' really," he answered. "Indeed, I have no objection whatever to sitting at dinner with my father. But—I am sure—if he knew that I was to be present he would refuse to accept your invitation. Therefore, in order not to embarrass you, it would be better for me to decline your invitation."

A swift surge of sympathy for the boy and of anger toward his obdurate father swept me.

"Indeed, you shall do no such thing," I cried hotly. "I am now inviting you to dinner on Saturday and I shall be extremely angry and hurt if you refuse. I shall tell your father that you are a dinner guest and then he must do as he pleases."

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, January 26

From the evil we should endeavor to extract the good.—Cicero.

THE astral operations for this day portend some inharmonious and disagreeable conditions in personal affairs as well as in general activities. There may be setbacks and postponements and also sorrows and possibly bereavements. There may be great anxiety or dealings with old established institutions may prove disappointing. Restrict negotiations to correspondence if possible and guard the household against treachery and conspiracy.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year calling for fortitude, courage and resolution, as both personal and other affairs may meet with obstacles and disappointment.

A child born on this day should be fairly talented, but it will win through perseverance, application and industry, its resolution conquering many obstacles.

Notable Nativity: Lord George Sackville, English general.

Transparencies

Of transcending transparency are many of the most charming dance frocks, for they are developed of tulle or point d'esprit net in the most alluring pastel colorings. Many of the tulle models favor the shaded tones, the shades growing deeper from girdle to hem. In these sheer fabrics, robes de style are especially featured.

If Cake Sticks

When a cake sticks to a tin, stand it over a vessel containing boiling water. The heat will loosen the cake, which can then be removed without breaking.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, silky, and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps to neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

No one is safe!

Banker, baker or society woman—no matter who we are—every one of us may offend unknowingly.

Frank facts . . . about body odor!

IF YOU have ever noticed body odor in another—and who hasn't—you know how it makes you feel toward the offender.

Respect, friendship, love—all wither before this grave offense.

Yet we are all subject to body odor. And body odor is more noticeable in winter because we're indoors more—in badly ventilated rooms, stuffy theatres, crowded street cars.

We'd die if we didn't perspire. Even on cold days—our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste each 24 hours.

Body odor more noticeable in winter—due to stuffy rooms—closed windows.
Pores give off as much as a quart of waste a day—even in coldest weather.
Now, a purifying toilet soap. Its antiseptic lather keeps you safe from body odor.

Why we cannot tell when we offend

This body waste, in perspiration form, whether you see it or not, is odorous. And it plays no favorites. Bank presidents and laborers, society leaders and servants—all may offend unless they take precautions. And the pity of it is that we may be guilty—and not know it!

For when an odor becomes familiar, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. That's why fastidious people—who think they are safe—may often offend most.

Don't take chances

Yet no one need risk embarrassing body odor. Just wash and bathe often with Lifebuoy, the deodorizing toilet soap.

The same antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores.

Note, too, how clear and fresh this antiseptic Lifebuoy lather keeps complexions. No wonder Lifebuoy is the favorite toilet soap of millions.

Note its hygienic scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's clean scent, which proves Lifebuoy purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing.

Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss Edith Rea Secretly Marries George A. Benney, Jr.

SECRET marriages among society folk aren't very common. For an impressive wedding, preferably in a lofty-ceiling church, illumined by tapers and the soft light of the sun stealing through stained glass windows, is usually one of the most important events in a young woman's life. But Edith Anne Rea, daughter of Mrs. Henry R. Rea of Sewickley Heights, found the idea of the conventional church wedding with a veil and orange blossoms and "everything" not at all to her liking.

So she and George Andrew Benney, Jr., son of Mrs. George Andrew Benney of Sewickley, decided to waive all the "fuss" and formality. They were married last August in New York while Edith's mother was in Europe. There wasn't any opposition to the match by the parents, though, I understand.

Not only did they get married secretly but Edith and her husband managed to keep it a secret for five months! Who ever said a woman couldn't a keep a secret?

At a tea last week-end in Palm Beach, where they are spending the winter months, they announced the surprising news.

Mr. and Mrs. Benney are staying at "Lagomar," the winter home of Mrs. Rea on South Ocean Beach boulevard.

What might mislead one more than anything else if one had suspected a secret marriage, was the announcement of the engagement of Mr. and Mrs. Benney, made by Mrs. Rea just before her departure for the South a few days after Christmas.

The junior Benneys are coming back to Pittsburgh in February, we have heard. In the meantime they are being much feted in the southern society resort.

Speaking of brides reminds me that Sewickley has a new charming young matron, Mrs. James Reed Gilmore. Mrs. Edward D. Gilmore of Thorn street entertained at a small luncheon in her home Monday afternoon for the young bride.

Mrs. James Reed Gilmore, you will recall, is the former Dorothy Maxson, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. R. W. Maxson of West Mystic, Conn. The marriage took place on October 25, in the Church of the Transfiguration, New York. Following their wedding, the young Gilmores went abroad.

Mr. Gilmore is the son of the late James Reed Gilmore and Mary Evans Gilmore of Sewickley.

Nowadays many Pittsburgh subdebs who are still in "prep" schools or finishing schools in the East are varying "the business of getting educated" by week ends spent in New York with their parents, many of whom are taking trips to Gotham these days, often in preparation of a trip southward.

Attractive Martha Edmondson, who goes to Miss Spence's School, joined her parents, the F. W. Edmondsons of South Negley avenue, in New York last week-end. Her parents are spending a few days at the Barclay.

By far the most important event for Pittsburgh society today is the wedding this afternoon in the Sixth Presbyterian Church of Virginia Hill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Schuyler Nicholson. All last week and almost right up to the hour of the wedding entertainment plans for the bride and bridal party have interested the social world.

Yesterday Mrs. Harris E. Wainwright and her young daughter, Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr., gave a luncheon in the Wainwright home, and last evening Mrs. Rufus Choate Crawford, mother of the bridegroom, Frederick Rufus Crawford, gave the rehearsal dinner in the University Club.

Griffith S. Davies, of Holland avenue, Wilkinsburg, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Margaret Isabel Davies, and Frederic Robert Aufhammer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Aufhammer, of Meade street, which was solemnized Saturday in Bethany Lutheran Church by the Rev. Dr. George W. Englar.

Miss Marie Stack is general chairman for the annual bridge party which the Ursuline Alumnae Association will give Saturday in the University Club. Her committee includes Mrs. John Moore, Jr., Mrs. John F. McGraw, Miss Adelaide Haggerty, Miss Mary Virginia Patterson, Miss Mary Duggan, Miss Jane McAleenan, Miss Pauline Maloney, Miss Margaret Sullivan and Miss Helen Tierney.

A luncheon was given Friday in the home of Mrs. Lawrence W. Pratt in the North Side in honor of the seventy-second birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. Henry Piel. Mrs. Piel's mother, Mrs. Caroline Niemeier, of Mt. Washington, who is 94, was one of the 12 guests.

The annual junior prom of the Carnegie Institute of Technology will be held Friday night in the Pittsburgh Country Club. The committee in charge includes T. L. Cannon, S. C. Ralston, T. R. Zenk, J. H. Seibert, R. H. Buckley and L. J. Hartman.

MISS MARY CHILDS

Miss Mary Childs will be one of the cigaret sellers at the Aero Club ball to be held February 3 in the William Penn Hotel.

NEW YORKER DEFENDS PRESENT DAY YOUTH

Youth always finds a valiant defender in Dr. Ira S. Wile, New York specialist in adolescent and childhood behavioristic problems, and in his talk before the Council of Jewish Women yesterday he reiterated many of the statements he made when he spoke last year before the Girls' Conference assembly. His subject yesterday was "Changing Youth—Changing Morals," and in developing it he sketched the many changes—in education, occupation, religious sanctions and the home—which have taken place and said, "Youth today is identical with youth of 1,000 or 10,000 years ago. Youth is critical, but youth is honest, and all youth asks is fair play and a larger understanding that youth and age may work out a new system."

Dr. Wile, by request, described his child clinic work and answered many questions relative to child training, this part of the afternoon resolving itself into as interesting a period as his lecture hour.

Mrs. Alfred Oppenheimer, second vice president, presided, and music was furnished by Jack Larner, boy violinist, who was accompanied by Mrs. A. L. Balter.

"Making Democracy Safe for the World" was the subject of a talk given yesterday by Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, of the County League of Women Voters, before the Woman's Club of Oakmont. Mrs. Nessie Forbes Baird sang several selections, accompanied by Mrs. Ernest F. Harris, and Mrs. J. A. Malha gave a comprehensive talk on political current events.

The club is planning a benefit to be given next month for the miners under the direction of the social and philanthropic committees, and in March the members will sponsor an appearance of the University of Pittsburgh Glee Club. The next regular club meeting, which is set for February 14, will be held in the Lehigh Theater, with Dr. John A. Hollinger, director of visualization in the Pittsburgh public schools, as the speaker.

As an innovation and a benefit for the club the Woman's Club of Avalon will sponsor a special exhibition of oil paintings and etchings by Christian J. Walter and his daughter, Miss Nancy Walter, at the Walter home in Prospect street, Thursday afternoon and evening, February 2. Mrs. Walter, who is a club member, will be assisted by Mr. A. P. Deets, Mrs. A. C. Miller, Mrs. Leroy Beuner and Mrs. John D. P. Kennedy. Mrs. Walter will also be hostess for the February meeting, which is set for the afternoon of the sixth. The literary department will present the program under the department chairman, Mrs. Chester England. National and Pennsylvania historical events will be discussed by Mrs. O. H. Milligan, Mrs. D. T. McKeag and Mrs. W. A. Michel, and the musical department, which was recently organized, will give a program of music by Pittsburgh composers.

Mrs. J. R. Criswell of Locust street will entertain the literary department at her home Monday night.

Gwilym A. Price will speak to the Housekeepers' Club tomorrow afternoon in the Congress of Clubs on "Life Insurance." Mrs. Flora B. Bowden will serve as chairman for the day and Mrs. George Espy will be hostess. Soprano solos will be sung by Mrs. Samuel J. Milliken, Mrs. H. P. McKown accompanying her. During the afternoon an open forum will be conducted on marketing conditions in the city, and later there will be cards for those who wish to remain. Reservations are being taken for the club's annual luncheon, February 9, in the Congress club house.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh held is annual training institute for parish branch officers yesterday at St. Peter's Parish House. The meeting opened with a model devotional exercise conducted by Mrs. R. L. Regester, which was followed by a general conference on educational work led by Mrs. Marcellin C. Adams. Group conferences were held under the sectional leaders and, after luncheon, a general conference on "The Corporate Gift" under Miss Lydia Fleming concluded the meeting.

Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, a member of the Pittsburgh Female College Association, will give "My Impressions of Europe" at the Association's meeting in the College Club Monday afternoon. Hostesses for the day include Mrs. Charles P. Montgomery, Mrs. A. C. Hess, Mrs. Penn Z. Spangler, Dr. Sue Taggert, Mrs. Leslie Constans, Mrs. W. M. Doulin, Miss Esther Johnston, Mrs. Ida L. Markell, Mrs. Herman Welty and Mrs. S. H. McKee.

A sauerkraut supper will be given Friday night by the Women's Home Missionary Society of Trinity Methodist Protestant Church, North Side.

STAGE AND SCREEN

MARGARET SCHOEN

Miss Schoen is a German film star who appears as Kreimhild in the German UFA film, "Siegfried," the dragon slayer of whom Wagner sang. It is to be shown in Moose Temple Thursday and Saturday. The man who directed "Metropolis," did the same service for "Siegfried."

Mantell to Give Shakespeare Revel

Robert B. Mantell and Genevieve Hamper come to the Nixon next Monday evening, for one week only, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, in Shakespearean repertoire, opening with "The Merchant of Venice. Other plays in the list are "Macbeth," "As You Like It," "Julius Caesar" and "Hamlet"

Howard Thurston, the greatest of conjurors, who is now entertaining in the Pitt, will be the guest of honor at a banquet to be given for him by the Society of American Magicians Friday night. Mr. Thurston has attended many social functions since he began his engagement in the Pitt. He will play a matinee tomorrow.

was a matter of publicity for no news was forthcoming concerning her first picture. However, perseverance will remedy most things. After making diligent inquiries, I find she is to be featured in a drama called "The Woman Who Needed Killing."

We'll soon have the slogan—"Go in the movies and see the world." First Ruth Taylor was sent to New York to be present at the premier of "Gentleman Prefer Blondes," and now comes a chance for Nancy Carrol to see the big city. Miss Carrol will travel eastward when "Able's Irish Rose" opens in New York in March. She will see herself on the screen and get an idea first-hand just how New York likes her as the leading lady in Ann Nichol's famous play.

Hollywood will soon be enlivened by tales of Paris. Harry D'Arrast and Monta Bell landed in this country Friday. They are only going to stay in New York long enough to get their land legs before they hit the trail for the West. Can't say just what band will meet the train, or what velvet carpet will be used, but I'm told a delegation is being rounded up to give the boys a welcome home.

Out of Arkon, O., famous for its rubber tires, there comes one Arthur Freedman with an idea to start a little theater movement in Hollywood. Mr. Freedman's plan, as related to the film folk, is a theater where Russian film plays, not yet released in America, can be seen. Mr. Freedman hopes to gather pictures that will not be shown elsewhere. Providing there are enough interesting pictures this ought to be widely patronized by the film colony.

Grace George in "The Road to Rome," sometimes called America's greatest comedienne, will be seen in the Robert Emmet Sherwood comedy, "The Road to Rome," in the Alvin next week. The sale of seats will begin tomorrow morning.

Rae Samuels, coming to the Davis next week, is to headline the Keith-Albee vaudeville bill. On the screen will be "Silk Legs."

Mr. Tallarico, pianist, is to be guest artist at the Yost String Quartet concert in the Hotel Schenley ballroom Saturday evening.

YOST STRING QUARTET TO PLAY SATURDAY

The third of the series of concerts by the Yost String Quartet in the Hotel Schenley ballroom will be given Saturday evening. Pasquale Tallarico, pianist, will be the guest artist. Members of the quartet are Gaylord Yost, first violin; Roy Shumaker, second violin; Carl Rosenberg, viola, James Younger, 'cello. The program includes Quartet, Op. 18, No. 2, Beethoven; Andante Cantabile, Tschaikowsky; Canzonetta, Mendelssohn; "The Old Folks at Home, Foster-Yost; Idyll, Frank Bridge; Quintet for piano and strings, Arnold Bax.

You can fairly taste the Cream

MILD and mellow—richest in creamy flavor, that's Nestlé's. Made by the famous blend perfected by Swiss experts, Nestlé's is a delicious confection—a nourishing, sustaining food. In 5 and 10 cent bars, plain and also with crisp toasted almonds.

Tender (the face)
Soft (the water)

HARD, hard water. Too hard to shave with. The lather won't mix well, nor get soft and fluffy. The razor can't get started, nor compete with the bristles. The skin feels bitter and harsh. Too bad!

Can't something be done? Yes! Put a dash of Melo in the shaving cup. How is the water now? Hard? Not a bit! Melo has made it soft—as soft as rain water. Now you can mix a fluffy lather! Now you'll enjoy shaving! Get Melo from your grocer today.

FT. WADSWORTH SOLDIERS LIVE IN TUNNELS

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Soldiers' housing conditions at Fort Wadsworth, the old coast artillery post on the Staten Island side of the narrows, opposite Fort Hamilton, were found by the citizens' committee organized to investigate army housing, to be generally bad. The committee found most of the 250 men stationed there quartered in the ancient, casemate barracks located within the area of the now obsolete coast defense fort.

The officers' and non-commissioned officers' quarters were found to be mostly one and two-story, frame structures, from 30 to 50 years old, most of them sadly in need of repairs and paint. Seventeen officers live at the post, most of them with their families. The exteriors of these buildings had the weather-beaten appearance of age and lack of systematic upkeep.

In the interiors viewed by the committee, the rooms indicated the urgent need of funds for repairs, paint and modern sanitary equipment. Plumbing was antiquated and the cooking and washing equipment out of date.

The houses are heated by the old-fashioned hot air furnaces, burning soft coal. These frequently fill the house with smoke and dirt, leaving unsightly streaks of soot up the wall near the hot air registers.

The non-commissioned officers' houses were found to be of similar construction, but less pretentious and of smaller dimensions, their general condition in respect of upkeep, due to a lack of sufficient funds, was the same as that of their bigger neighbors.

A large number of war-time shacks are still standing. One of these, until recently used as a recreation hall for the men, was destroyed by fire. One end of the flimsy structure was totally destroyed by the flames. The committee found this building to be undergoing repaids by soldier labor.

All of the enlisted men, and most of the non-com officers below the top grades, live at Fort Wadsworth in the antiquated casemate barracks of the old coast artillery fort. The committee found this brick, quadrangle structure, dating from Civil War days, picturesque and suitable as a setting for a film drama, but inadequate and unhealthful as living quarters for soldiers of the present day.

Entrance is through a long, dark, arched tunnel. The space or courtyard inside is paved with cobble stones worn round with the tramp of Army boots on the feet of succeeding generations of American soldiers.

The barracks, the committee found, extend into the ground like tunnels, with arched ceilings, lined by the soldiers with boxboard and painted to afford at least a modicum of cheerfulness. The walls are brick, but even here, the committee found, the water would seep through the brick walls in rainy weather. The rooms were dark, damp, cheerless and insanitary.

The gutters along the roof above the galleries, the committee found, were badly in need of replacement. During rain or thaw, it was said, the gutters were worse than useless. The men could not walk under the roofs of the galleries without getting dripping wet owing to the broken gutters. They were unfit for further repairs.

As at other posts the committee found that the officers were doing their utmost to assist the men in making the best out of a bad situation. The officers admitted it was a struggle.

(Tomorrow's article will review conditions at Fort Schuyler.)

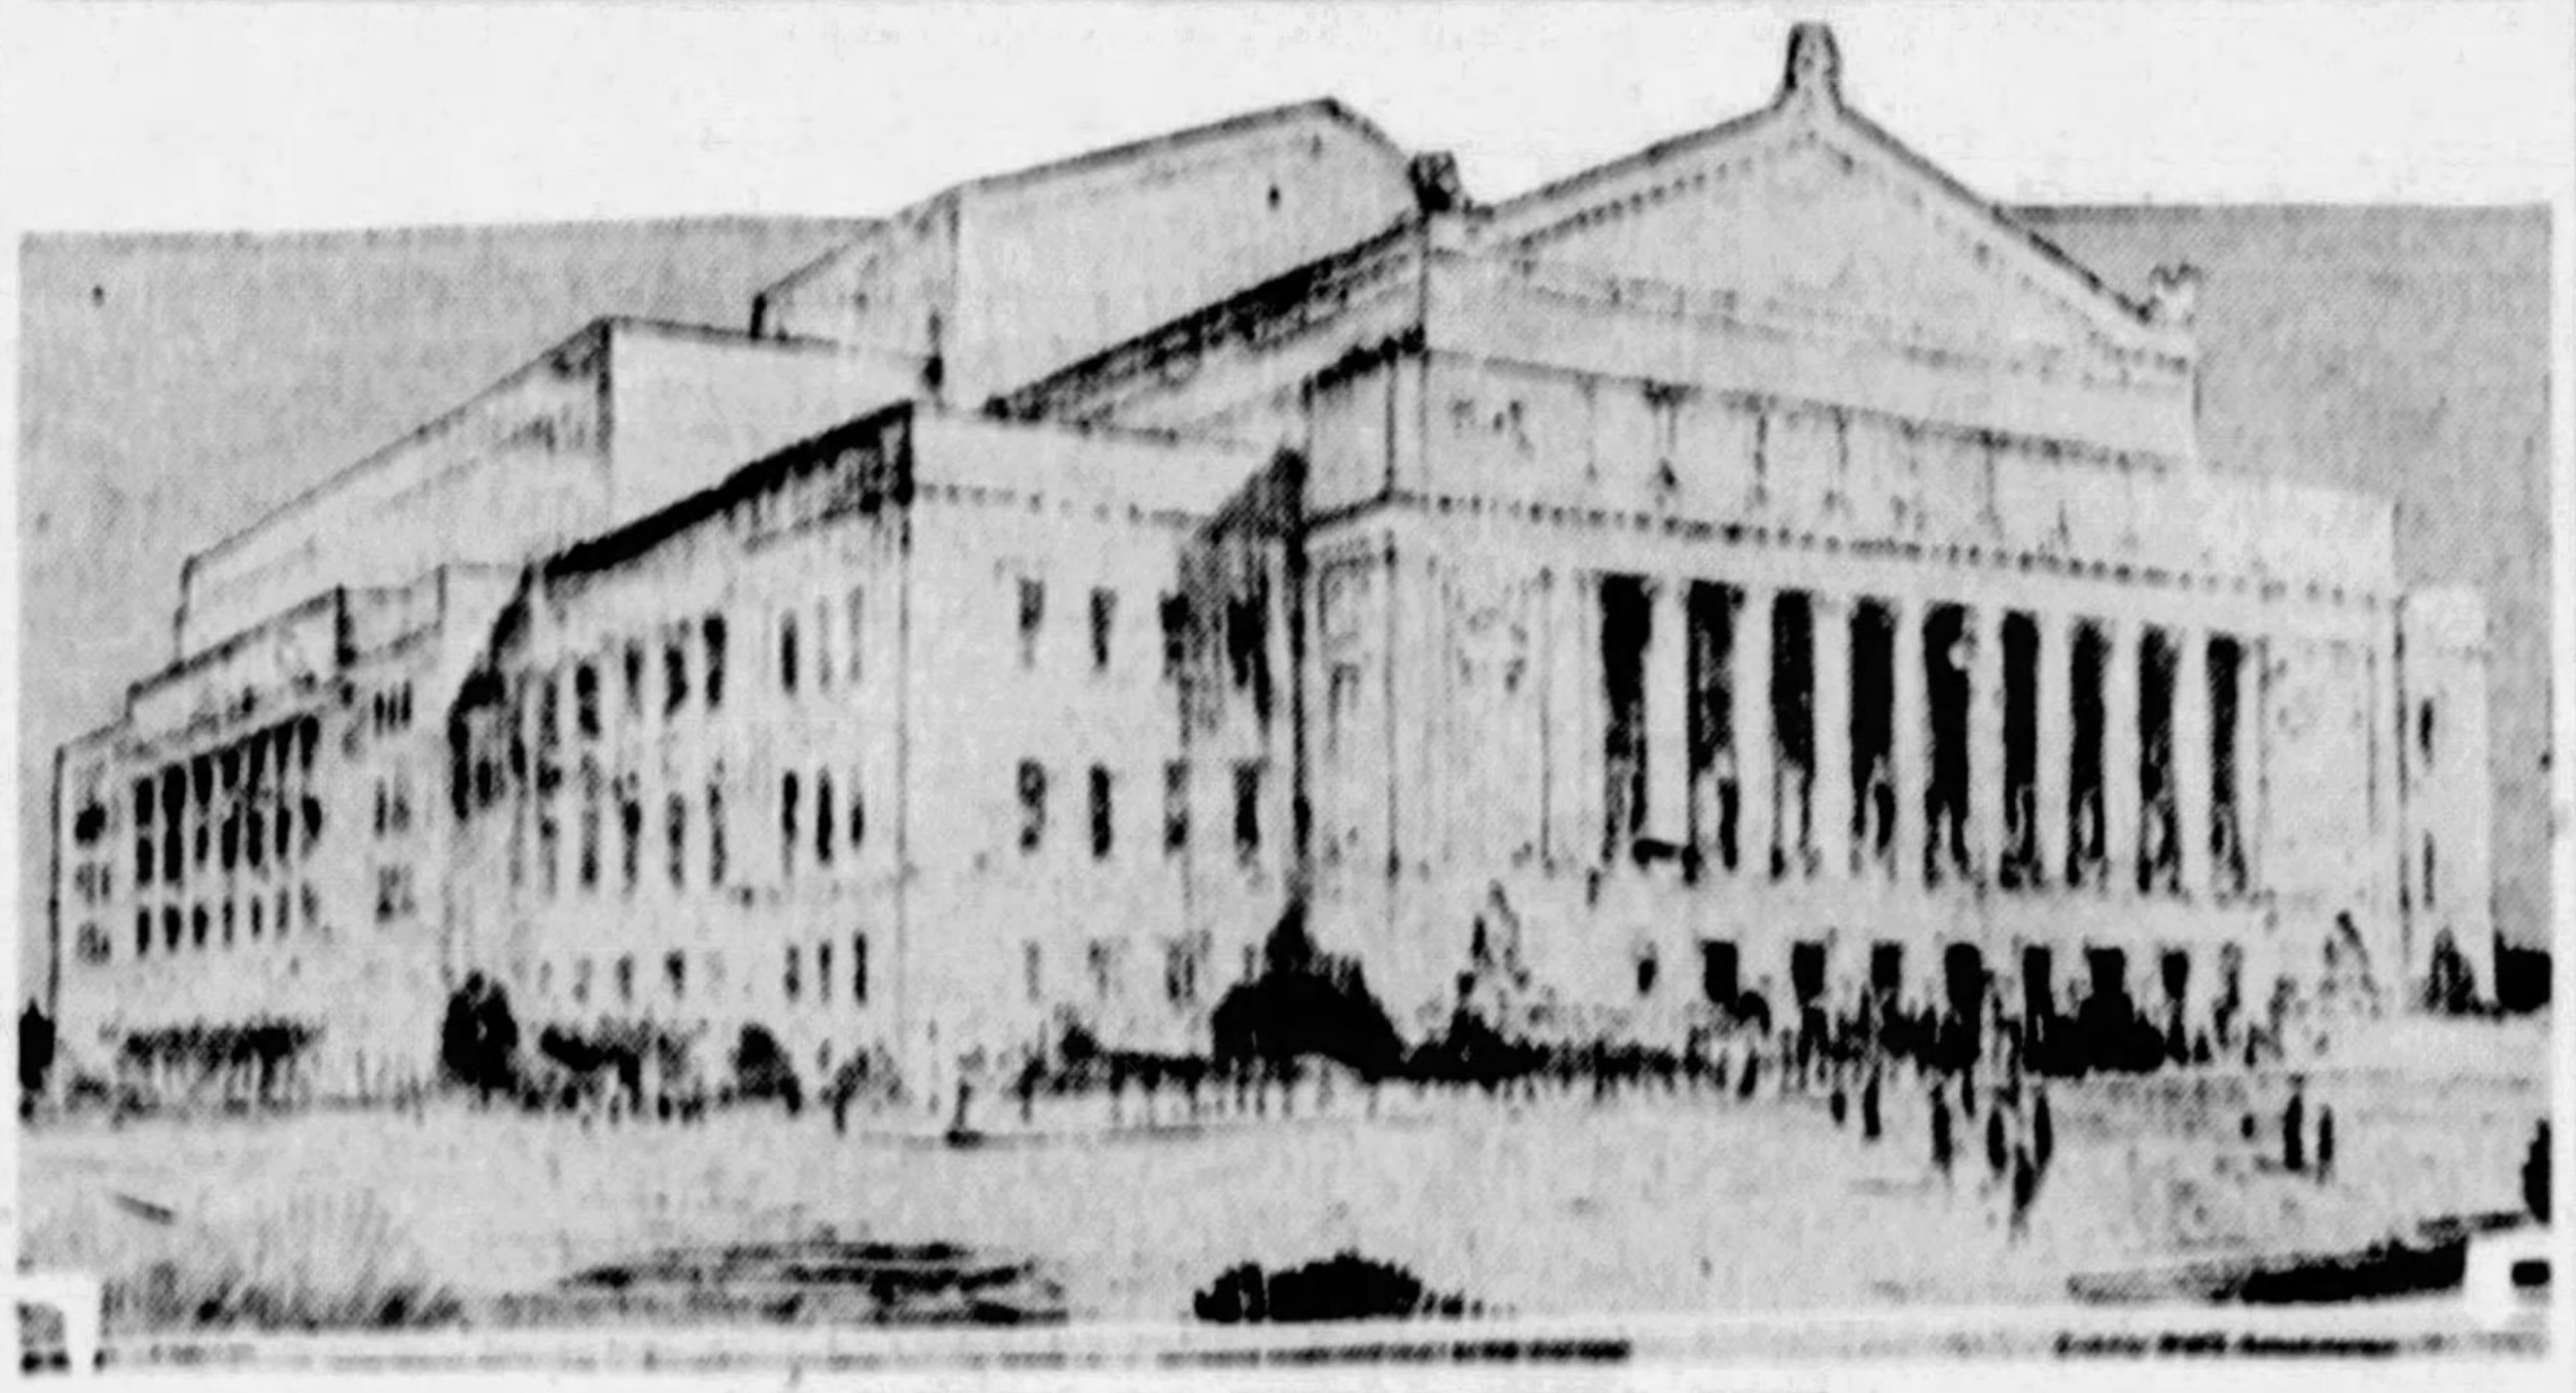
PITTSBURGHERS PLAN TOWN HALL



ST. LOUIS TO BUILD THIS ONE

Pittsburgh's town hall committee, which is to hold a dinner at the William Penn Hotel, February 6, to boost the erection of a public auditorium for the Pittsburgh district, has been making a study of similar edifices in other cities. One of those under inspection is the St. Louis auditorium, for which a $5,000,000 municipal bond issue has been authorized and $1,000,000 already spent for the site. The plans have been drawn and construction is about to begin.

STORMS FORCE DOWN FORD PLANE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., January 25.—(AP.)—Forced down here by stormy weather on his attempted non-stop Detroit-Miami flight in the Ford "flivver" plane, Harry J. Brooks prepared today to return home, more confident than ever of the tiny craft's ability. He said he would make another attempt to reach the Florida city as soon as weather permits.

Brooks planned to break his return trip with an overnight stop in Washington.

After encountering "terrible weather" all the way down from Detroit and struggling to fly his baby ship across the last remaining ribs of the Blue Ridge Mountains, Brooks brought the plane down on a hill in Asheville suburb shortly after 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Heavy head winds and ice forming on the wings at high altitudes and fog and clouds at low levels forced him to the ground, he said.

As an indication of the head-wind pressure, he said that after passing Asheville he flew for an hour toward Spartanburg, S. C., and, deciding to return, covered the same distance in 10 minutes.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 25.—They take their marbles seriously in Clarksville. Five boys are under arrest after a fight precipitated by that ancient game.

SUNDAY MUSIC WAR FLARES AGAIN

War on Sunday concerts flared up again today.

The Sabbath Association of the Pittsburgh area called a meeting of its executive committee to instruct its attorneys to appeal from the decision of the County Court in the case against officers and musicians of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society. The appeal will be carried to the Superior Court and will act as a suspension of judgment of the lower tribunal.

"In other words," explained Attorney William H. Pratt, counsel for the Sabbath Association, "when the appeal is filed the matter will be just where it stood last spring and those favoring the enforcement of the law would be free to proceed against promoters of Sunday concerts in the same manner as in the previous case."

At the headquarters of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society in the Bakewell Building, a membership "drive" was announced as the result of the encouragement received through the favorable decision of the County Court. The musicians were called yesterday and told to prepare for rehearsals for the first of the series of concerts to be given on a Sunday late in February.

RELIANCE LIFE AGENTS MEET

Eighty per cent of the people buy life insurance through sentiment and emotion and 20 per cent because of a selfish motive, N. S. Tomlinson, supervisor in Birmingham for the Reliance Life Insurance Company, said before the annual sales conference of the company's general agents and supervisors in William Penn Hotel Tuesday.

E. G. McCormack, vice-president, announced at the meeting that the company's new agency educational course, designed to increase sales efficiency, had been completed.

Other speakers included H. G. Scott, vice-president; H. T. Burnett, supervisor of Western Pennsylvania, and Wilson Slick of Johnstown.

FRANKSTOWN AVENUE BUILDING IS RAIDED

Constables and prohibition agents last night raided a three-story building at 6289 Frankstown avenue, seized 500 bottles of beer and arrested George Xeros, 35.

MORE GIANTS SIGN

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Two more of John McGraw's Giants have signed 1928 contracts. Frank "Dutch" Henry, young left hand pitcher, and Andy Reese, the "Handy Andy" of the team, are the men whose signed documents were received yesterday at the Giant offices.

The Varsity Column

by Jess M. Carver

THE success that has been Pitt's in football, and the success that is and is going to continue to be in basketball, unless all signs fail, seems destined to continue as the wind-up sport of the year slowly rolls around, Meaning the noble sport of running and heaving, jumping and throwing. Track, if the secret must come out.

Coach Shea

Only three men, point scoring men, were lost from last spring's championship squad. They were Linn, star weight man; Peters the high jumper and Handsome Marquis, distance runner. Welch, Gwinn, Webecan, Bowen, Robb, Long, Magee, Fyock, Adams, Roy—all these fellows will be back, most of 'em are already training, and the others will start shortly.

IT LOOKS very much as if Coach Shea would be able to start building his team with the finest set of newcomers and the strongest nucleus that he has had to work with since his advent at Pitt as coach. Among the incoming stars, the freshmen of last year, are McCullough, Knoblock, Cohen, Parkinson, Ashbaugh, Uansa, Bilsten and Greenberger. Of these, Knoblock stands out as having the greatest possibilities, and already looms as the most proficient hurdler in the school.

PITT will be strong again in the weights. Welch, the grid star, all-America halfback and after-dinner speaker, is a fine discus handler, and will be an Olympic team candidate of first water. He broad jumps, tosses the javelin and heaves the shot. Last season he was good for 15 or more points in every meet.

Don Gwinn, former national A. A. U. hammer champion is back, and Robb will be on hand to throw the javelin.

VIC PICKARD, former Canadian Olympic pole vault star and one of the most consistent vaulters in the country last year, one of the few to better 13 feet, will take care of this event, and will also assist in the javelin tossing. Magee is another good vaulter. Brinker and Stoups may be comers.

PETE BOWEN and Ken Webecan, together with Long and McCullough should make things hot for the boys in the sprints. Bowen, if he'll get down to work, ought to be among the best 220 men in the country. He went good last year, placing in all of the big relay carnivals in which he was entered, and since then, has had his tonsils out, which he says, has improved his physical condition a hundred per cent.

Pete Bowen

ROY ROY is going to run the 880 and mile this year, and is thinking of giving up the quarter. He did not run in this event a great deal last spring. Adams will have to step into Marquis' shoes in the two-mile, and Uansa, Hoffman, Kennedy, Wilson and Gossett will work in the half-mile and longer distance events.

THE team already has started work, drills being held daily in the track house. Weight men have as yet not been called out, and won't be until the weather makes out-of-doors practice possible. It is tough to get distance with the discus in a track or field house. Try it sometime.

All in all, Coach Shea should have a fine season, even better perhaps than last when the Panthers cleaned up everything hereabouts and were given more than an outside chance to beat State, in the meet which was never held.

Title Bout Is Promised

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The identity of Gene Tunney's next ring opponent today remains as much a mystery as ever, despite the signing of Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko in Boston yesterday for a 15-round bout here, March 12.

Sharkey was signed by Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, on the promise that he would be given a bout with Tunney next summer. McMahon supposedly was acting with Rickard's approval, but a few hours later the promoter denied that the winner of the Sharkey-Risko go would be matched with Tunney.

Jack Sharkey.

Rickard is in Miami, Fla., with the heavyweight champion. The promoter's bewildered assistants here today were awaiting a clarifying statement. It is believed here that if the Jack Delaney-Tom Heeney bout here, March 1, ends decisively, the winner will be given first crack at Tunney.

Sharkey had announced yesterday he was through with engaging in eliminations and wanted to fight Tunney or Jack Dempsey and no other heavyweight.

GENE FAVORS CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—If Gene Tunney, boss of the heavyweights, has his way, the next "Battle of the Century" will be held in Chicago some time next summer. Opposing Tunney is Tex Rickard, who favors New York, with the date of the bout late this fall.

Such were the latest developments in Chicago's effort to get the next championship bout as disclosed in a telegram from Anton J. Cermak, chairman of the Cook county board, who is sojourning with the champion in Florida.

"Rickard wanted to hold elimination bouts in Madison Square Garden and put Tunney on late in the fall," reads the telegram. "To this Tunney objected. Final agreement provides Rickard name opponent by February 1 and post $100,000. Tunney will then reject or accept this offer or make a counter proposal.

"Rickard favors Madison Square Garden Corporation and New York for the fight. Tunney prefers Chicago."

Gov. Len Small of Illinois yesterday issued a statement approving of staging the championship bout in Chicago this summer.

GODFREY BOUT GETS O. K.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The last wrinkle in the path of the George Godfrey-Paulino Uzcudun bout here, February 28, has been ironed out with the granting of permission by the police commission to stage the bout at Wrigley Field. The State Athletic Commission already had approved the bout and site.

In putting its official approval on the bout, the athletic commission ruled that prices of from $1 to $5 must prevail. Godfrey and his manager, Jim Dougherty, are due here tomorrow.

WALKER AFTER LOUGHRAN

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight boxing champion, is ready to defend his title as ordered by the National Boxing Association, but would prefer stepping out of his division to swap blows with a few of the leading light-heavyweights.

Walker desires to meet Tommy Loughran, holder of the light-heavyweight title, but is willing to fight Leo Lomski, who gave Loughran a hard battle, or anyone else that his manager selects.

The middleweight champion expressed himself yesterday while in Chicago en route to California to join his manager, Jack Kearns.

SOUTH HILLS GIRLS TAKE CITY BANNER

Getting away to a slim lead in the opening minutes of play, which they managed to hold throughout the game, the South Hills High School girls' basketball team copped the city championship yesterday afternoon, defeating Peabody's girls' sextette by a 25-13 score.

The game was close and hotly contested throughout. Miss Knth, South Hills forward led in the scoring, bagging five field goals. She also played a fine floor gamee. Superior work at the foul line provided South Hills with the necessary points to maintain their lead.

Duquesne ....30—Waynesburg 21

a nice hard basketball game, maybe a bit rough in spots, but did nothing glaring enough to cause either Buck Snyder, who refereed the game, or his little brother, Beggs, who umpired, to give him the well known "dressing room thumb."

"He's killing my boys," wailed Mister Davies. Help! Murder! Police!"

It is so seldom that Chick Davies raises his voice in protest over the tactics on the part of an opponent that many of the folks present, and there were a goodly number there, thought Chick had a just kick coming. But I think Chick was a little excited over the fact that when the said Welch was doing his durndest, the Yellow Jackets were staging a remarkable comeback, and were on even terms, or thereabouts, with the Dukes.

Well, at any rate, the Dukes are still sitting on top of the conference, with three wins and no defeats. They beat Waynesburg last night, fairly handily it would seem after hearing the score, but in reality looked far from championship class. The only thing that saved 'em was that the Jackets looked worse, and Capt. Jerry Reich, playing a really brilliant game, led his Red and Blue passers to a victory.

SOCCER

Hillen, Robert Robinson, of Harmarville, representative of the American League occupied the chair. Stark, from the Monongahela League; Mincher, of the International; Clark, from the Scottish Clan, and McClurg, from the District circuit were the representatives present, together with Secretary Parks, and former President Hopkins. Professor Guthrie of the Allegheny county schools also sat in at the meeting.

The resolution of council calling for a special meeting was read and a date set for February 3. The outcome of this session will be awaited with interest.

As a means of raising the Western Pennsylvania quota for the Olympic fund, the idea of another American-born vs. foreign-born all-star game was agreed upon and the cup committee of the association will work upon this idea.

SETTLE VERISH CASE

A final settlement of the now famous Verish case was also agreed upon and the referee's suspension lifted by the governing body. Quite a controversy regarding the Washington County League was held and a motion made to lift the suspension of one of the officials. This motion was lost, and the case referred back to the Appeals Committee of the association.

Quite a bit of time was spent commenting on the recent visit of the representatives of the district to Ohio and the fine treatment tendered by the Ohio State body. The members of council also took this opportunity to laud the work of the players in that game.

Two resignations, that of President William Carson and of Vice President Phillip Hillen were offered, and a motion that they be not accepted carried. Both these officials gave pressure of business as their reasons for quitting active participation in the sport.

Finally a plea of complete harmony in the soccer fold was made and there is more than a chance that this will be very acceptable to all concerned in the promoting of the sport in this district. If the honor of the district is going to be upheld in the Olympic business, then there must be complete harmony if our quota is to be raised.

The circular letter sent to the local officials regarding the method of selecting the American team is very vague. Most of the members did not think it feasible and there is a chance that it would cost more to stage this elimination than the Olympic committee would take in at the gate.

Notes of the Boxers

THE plans of the Motor Square Boxing Club to show Battling Levinsky, former American light-heavyweight champion, against Jack Delaney, resigned world champion of that class and now a strong contender for the heavyweight crown, in its arena, February 6, have been abandoned and Matchmaker Johnny Ray now is casting about for another opponent for Delaney. Levinsky, after stalling around for a bit, finally admitted he didn't want to take on the knockerout, and he hardly can be blamed in view of the form Delaney has been showing in his recent battles.

The card has been completed for the boxing show at McKeesport tomorrow night with the signing of Monte Sirko of the South Side and Young Angelo of Swissvale for the opening number. Jackie Rodgers meets Luis Carpentero and Phil Scalla boxes Harry Taylor in the two 10-round feature events, and Georgie Peck and Allen Beatty will box the second bout.

Young Rudy of Charleroi boxes Dick Cassi at East Liverpool tomorrow night.

Tommy Crowley and Tony Ross, local fist-flingers, are training at Indianapolis for the first bouts of their stay in the Hoosier Capital, the first week in February. Crowley's opponent likely will be Babe Ruth of Louisville.

Bobby Young, the Duquesne lightweight, who has been boxing successfully around Detroit, plans to return home soon. He will box again under the management of his old manager, Jules Beck of Duquesne.

Phil Glassman of Philadelphia and his entire stable of boxers has been banned in New York state until Benny Bass goes through with his title fight with Tony Canzoneri, February 10.

William Muldoon, member of the New York Athletic Commission, and Jack Sharkey's original and warmest booster, is beginning to have his doubts about the former gob's future. He fears Sharkey, with lots of money, a fine home and a family, has lost the incentive that made him a great fighter a year or so ago.

Bud Taylor and Joey Sangor will clash in a featherweight elimination bout in Chicago, February 3. Sangor handed Taylor a bad beating the last time they met. He boxes Sammy Dorfman in Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow night.

Pete Latzo and Maxie Rosenbloom box at Wilkes-Barre tomorrow night. Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight champion, meets Pep O'Brien at Wilkes-Barre, and Armand Emanuel boxes Joe Lohman at Hollywood, Cal. Bruce Flowers engages Lope Tenorio in the Madison Square Garden windup, and Bobby Garcia and Phil Raymond mingle in Baltimore.

Jack Zivic is in St. Paul working out for his bout with Billy Light of St. Paul there tomorrow night. Luke Carney will handle Zivic in the battle.

Johnny Dunn of New Kensington won by a technical knockout in the fourth round of his bout with Jackie Daly at Scranton Monday night.

Mike Moran, Jack Barry, Nick Susnell and Freddie Boylstein all box on the card at Erie tomorrow night. Moran meets Johnny Ryan of Boston, Barry boxes Mickey Solomon of New Castle, Susnell engages Johnny Carey of Erie, and Boylstein battles Harry Brignolia. Young Amona, Boylstein's sparring partner, and Mike Mulligan of Erie appear in the opening bout.

FATHER GOOSE

Sing a song of baseball,
  Wigwam full of Braves;
Four and twenty holdouts—
  How the owner raves;
When the season opens
  With salaries at hand,
Who'll supply the sugar
  For the Rajah's Forty Grand?

There was a man in Boston town
  Who thought that he was slick,
He sold Bambino to the Yanks—
  It was a scurvy trick;
The Sox began to slip and slide
  With all their might and main—
Oh, how the fans would like to have
  The Babe back home again.

SOUTH HILLS

South Hills showed brainwork in continual passing and only shooting for the basket when within the foul line; it evidently has learned to appreciate that short shots count much more easily than long, inaccurate attempts. Its passing at times, however, was too weak, lacking bullet-like punch. The players, too, seemed rather clumsy in their dribbling and passing, but this may have been due to South Hills' small floor and will be smoothed out before long. It is a fighting team and while Dering accounted for most of the baskets, his teammates fed them to him most of the time. That is an admirable quality.

Perry saw red yesterday and its fighting spirit—a mighty fine one, too—caused it to "throw down the bars" of common-sense basketball and blindly try to remedy the situation. Its total of six field goals tells the story of long shooting and little in accurate passing. Most of its points were tallied in the last half. Hunt, its star, was stopped in his tracks. The lineup:

Garnham	F	Rodgers
Miller	F	Hunt
Dering	C	Dennis
Ladley	G	Blind
Irr	G	Wilson

South Hills	18	16	34
Perry	7	15	22

Substitutions — Phillips for Garnham, Jones for Phillips, Clark for Miller, M. Phillips for Dering, Gee for Ladley, Taylor for Dennis, Stuber for Blind. Field goals—Garnham 2, Phillips 2, Clark, Dering 6, Ladley 2, Rodgers 2, Hunt, Stuber 3, Wilson 3. BILL PHILLIPS, JR., TO PILOT CHARLEROI

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 25.—William Phillips, Jr. son of Bill Phillips, former big league pitcher and manager of the Indianapolis Federal League team, has been elected manager of the Charleroi team in the Middle Atlantic League for 1928. Young Phillips has had several years' experience as a ball player and is considered one of the smartest players in the valley.

ARMY-NEBRASKA GAME FAVORED AT CAPITAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Emissaries of Nebraska University, here in the interests of signing the Army on the Cornhuskers' football schedule next fall, state the game is favored by government authorities at Washington.

Herbert D. Gish, graduate manager of athletics at Nebraska, declared Vice President Charles G. Dawes and Gen. John J. Pershing, both Nebraskans, were favorable to a Nebraska-Army game. With Gish are L. E. Gunderson, financial secretary of the board of regents at Nebraska, and George W. Holmes, president of the First Trust Company of Lincoln, Neb.

The Nebraska delegates said they hoped Army would agree to play at Lincoln, but in the event that was impossible, an arrangement for Nebraska to play the Cadets here would be sought. It was understood a special officer from West Point is now in Washington sounding out sentiment in regards to the proposed Nebraska tilt.

Carter vs. Currie, at Kalmer, Oakland.

FRANK JONES of Kenny's, veteran Interstate League star, played championship billiards to set a new low inning record in the Pittsburgh Three-Cushion Billiard League in beating Billy Greenwood, of Ellis', league leader, last night at Ellis', 50 to 26, in 47 innings. On the short end of a 10-to-0 score at the opening of his fifth session, Jones ran nine, then five, taking the lead never to be headed. The series between the pair, the only scratch players in the league, now stands two-all, with two more to play.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Edgar Appleby, his brother, Francis, and Elvin Edwards were tied for first place today in the national amateur 18.1 balkline billiard championship tournament.

Edgar Appleby defeated Jacob Clinger, 250 to 83, and Herbert Hammer won from Maurice Parker, 250 to 61, in second round matches.

GREENSBURG'S CAGE STAR BANNED

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 25.—Hopes of the Greensburg High School quintet for the championship in Section X of the W. P. I. A. L. were given a serious setback today with the announcement that William Potts, giant center of the Brown and White team, had been declared ineligible for the balance of the season.

Greensburg school heads said that Potts had taken part in an independent game of basketball recently without consulting Coach Earl E. Loucks, and as a result has been automatically barred from further participation during the regular league season. The W. P. I. A. L. has a ruling which denies the right of a high school basketball player taking part in any games outside of his own school during the regular season.

The loss of the big fellow may seriously hurt the chances of Loucks' team, which is tied with Connellsville for the league lead, in its game at Uniontown Friday night.

Hornsby Hurt "Spirit of McGraw," Stoneham Says in Assuming Swap Responsibility

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Evening World quotes Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, as assuming full responsibility for trading Rogers Hornsby to Boston and explaining that it was necessary "to centralize McGraw as the personality that directed the Giants."

In a statement to the Evening World, Stoneham made it clear that no personal controvery between himself and the second baseman was involved, as had been generally believed.

"The only time I ever talked to Hornsby during the season," said Stoneham, "was when he had his batting slump and was being razzed from the stands. I sent for him and told him not to pay any attention to that. He told me it did not bother him. That was all I said to him all season. That story of his having insulted me in Pittsburgh is absolutely untrue."

The Giants' executive, asserting he expected to meet "violent criticism" for his action, explained that he decided to trade Hornsby after noting how he managed the club in McGraw's absence.

"I had noticed that with McGraw away the club had adopted different methods, that the hours were different and that the general method of procedure was different. The change may have been all for the better but I felt it was not the spirit of McGraw. It dawned on me that to remedy this and prevent any possible conflict in authority it would be best to send Hornsby elsewhere."

Stoneham disclosed that the Giants considered offering Hornsby to either Pittsburgh or Chicago, but actually dickered only with Cincinnati and Brooklyn before completing the exchange finally with Boston.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

TOO often do we note examples of persons who, trying to outsmart the world, outsmart themselves.

There are instances of champions of the ring who refuse big purses to meet worthy challengers and then lose their titles to "dark horses" in the "sticks" for insignificant sums.

Pete Scott.

There are instances of athletes in other lines, and men in all walks of life, who, striving to pull the unexpected, bring down the unexpected on themselves.

There are figures who constantly over-reach themselves and never quite get what they should out of the game. In other words, while they stand out in their own sphere, they flop when they try the other fellow's end.

COMES to hand now a tale about Pete Scott, the new Pirate outfielder, who came here from the Cubs along with Sparky Adams in the Kiki Cuyler deal. It tells how he outsmarted himself out of more than $5,000 and delayed his big league career by holding out for part of the purchase price when the Washington Senators, in the throes of a hot pennant race back in 1924, bought him from the Kansas City Blues to fill an urgent gap in the outfield.

The Senators sent Harold Gagnon, shortstop; Bert Griffith, outfielder, and Catcher Bill Hargrave, brother of Bubbles, to the Blues for Scott, and Scott got the idea he was a valuable bit of baseball bric-a-brac and demanded part of the purchase price before reporting to the Senators. The demand was turned down and the Senators notified the Blues that they must return Hargrave immediately, but could have Gagnon and Griffith for $5,000 each. The Blues bought the pair, sent back Hargrave and kept Scott. The Senators then bought Earl McNeeley from the Coast League and went on and won the pennant and defeated the Giants in the world series.

Earl McNeeley.

AFTER the world series, McNeeley and Hargrave both returned to their homes and showed their friends checks for more than $5,000 as their winning share of the spoils, while Scott had the whole winter to think over how he had booted away a similar prize.

Hargrave had returned reluctantly to the Senators. He wanted to remain in Kansas City. In his case he had stumbled into luck.

What about Gagnon and Griffith? Well, they fizzled and at the end of the season the Blues were through with them. They couldn't even sell them at a loss, so released them without the formality of taking them on the training trip the following spring.

This is truly a world of recompense. It seems that always somebody must be the loser when somebody else gains.

WHAT about Pete Scott now? He was tossed into the Cuyler-for-Adams deal as so much excess baggage. The Pirates wanted a seasoned, steady second baseman and were willing to trade Cuyler up and up for Adams. With a strong outfield corps, Scott isn't needed. But wouldn't it be a strange quirk of fate if the gods of baseball should ordain that he come through in great style and prove the real "buy" of the trade?

FROM far-off Australia—the land Down Under—comes the news that the natives are very much surprised over the success of Tom Heeney against the world's best (or worst) heavyweights in Tex Rickard's elimination tourneys. When Heeney was boxing in his native New Zealand and the other Australian spots he appeared too slow and stodgy and muscle-bound ever to get anywhere. Also, he lacked ambition and seemed never properly trained. No wonder they are marveling about his success now.

Tom Heeney.

It is intimated that the poor pay Heeney received back home may have had something to do with his indifferent work. For one bout, with Colin Bell, the English heavyweight, at Mackay, in North Queensland, his purse was so small that it proved insufficient to defray his expenses back to Sydney, and, arriving there, he received something like $40 for boxing a fellow named Complin. He had earned his transportation back to Sydney by cutting cane sugar.

THERE was a time when Australia was one of the really big boxing centers of the world. That was before the World War. The boom days ended with the departure of the late Les Darcy for the United States prior to the entrance of this country in the big conflict. Darcy was the last great fighter of the Antipodes, and he returned home in a casket. When they buried Les, they seemingly interred the heart of the sport with him.

Recently wrestling has taken the place of boxing as the chief lure for the Anzac fans. A match not long ago between Bob Clapham of England and Ted Thye, two grapplers whose names mean nothing in this country, drew a gate of $20,000, and they have been rematched for another big event.

LOCAL BODY TO FIGHT TOURNEY IDEA

By TOM BIRKS.

THE Western Pennsylvania Soccer Football Association at its regular monthly meeting held in the Hotel Henry last night, passed a resolution condemning the Olympic Soccer Committee's proposal to select the United States team that will compete in the coming Olympic games after staging a series of elimination games between leading amateur teams of the country.

The Association also balked at the assessment of $1,000 as this district's share of the expense attending the support of the team, though the body finally pledged itself to do its utmost to raise the sum. The Olympic committee's elimination game plan will be bitterly fought by the local association, however, and a copy of the resolution as passed last night was ordered forwarded to the committee.

The idea of the local body is that Heidelberg, national amateur champs, should be selected to form the nucleus of the United States team, especially if the Green and Gold outfit retains its title this year.

Defeated Champ Attacks Mat Referee

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 25.—A near free-for-all followed a wrestling match here in which the light-heavyweight championship changed hands.

The referee awarded the match to Joe Shimkus, Chicago, on a foul and Clarence Eklund, the loser, swung a right to the official's jaw. Police intervened.

TRIS FAILS TO REDUCE SALARY, IS LET OUT

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Americans, today announced the unconditional release of Tris Speaker, centerfielder, effective February 1.

The announcement was made after Speaker had failed to comply with Griffith's demand to voluntarily reduce his own salary.

Griffith refused to comment on the release other than to say that he was endeavoring to build up a ball club with young material. Speaker had been with the Washington club for one year, but in organized baseball for 20 seasons.

Griffith had told him he must voluntarily reduce his present salary if he expected to receive a contract for this season. Speaker retaliated with a statement while en route from his home in Texas to Georgetown, S. C., that it was not his place to approach the club owner with such a proposition, and he is understood to be ready to negotiate with other clubs.

Griffith refused to reveal Speaker's present salary, saying that if it were known "some people might think it was excessive." It is understood, however, to be between $40,000 and $60,000. He previously had said that "I have plenty of young material to take Speaker's place," and today he said there was no unfriendliness and that he was sure the settlement would be amicable.

"Walter Johnson's decision to retire from major league baseball last season led the Washington club officials to decide upon the policy of a younger ball club," Griffith added. "The baseball public of Washington demands a younger club and we are going to provide that."

Last season Speaker stood high in the American League batting list with an average of .327 and a fielding average of .957. Griffith has announced that Sam West, a recruit obtained from the Birmingham Southern Association Club in 1926, is being considered as Speaker's successor. West batted .340 in the Southern in 1926, but slumped to .239 with the Senators last season, probably because of injuries early in the year.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, when he learned of the release of Tris Speaker by the Washington Club, said he could find use for him in the Philadelphia outfield provided Speaker and he could reach an agreement on salary.

"We need another outfielder and if Speaker's terms are reasonable, I could use him," said Mack.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The management of the Braves said this afternoon that no effort was being made to secure the services of Tris Speaker. "Speaker is not coming to Boston," said an official spokesman of the local club.

Duquesne Defeats Jackets

By JESS CARVER.

IT SEEMS there were two Irishmen—no, just one Irishman, and he caused trouble aplenty in Duquesne University basketball circles last night. He didn't raise enough of a stir to enable his ball club, Waynesburg College, to eke out a victory in their Conference clash with the Dukes, but he kept the boys interested, to say the least. The Dukes won the game, 30 to 21.

The Irishman, Mister Welch's boy Joe, raised cain with the Durable Dukes in a manner that caused the genial Chick Davies, Duquesne's cage mentor, to throw up his hands in holy horror and emit loud squawks of protest. Welch played

Dukes Not To Play 'Nova

RUMORS that Villa Nova and Duquesne University would meet on the gridiron next fall, in circulation here today, are given no credence at the local school.

When informed of the report that the Duquesne-Villa Nova game was in the making, John D. Holohan, athletic manager at Duquesne, today said that the Dukes had been approached by the Eastern school in regard to a game to be played at Villa Nova on September 29, but that the offer had been rejected. The only date remaining open on the Duke card, Holohan continued, is November 10, and there have been no negotiations looking toward a game at that time.

The bid to a game on September 29 was made by Harry Stuhldreher, Villa Nova coach, to Elmer Layden, Duquesne coach, when the two met recently at the coaches' meeting in New York. Layden rejected the offer because a long trip so early in the season is not desired.

There have been no negotiations between Duquesne and Villa Nova officials since that time, according to Holohan.

BUCS, BRUINS BATTLE TO THIRD DRAW

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Bruins failed last night for the third time this season to get a decision in National Hockey League contests with each other when they battled to a scoreless tie in a hotly contested game here.

The two sextets, in three games, 210 minutes of play, have so far been unable to successfully pierce the other's defense, and have yet to score a goal.

Boston got some solace out of the third draw with the Bucs, as the one point awarded for a deadlock enabled the locals to clamber back into first place in the American section, a single point ahead of the New York Rangers, who were idle last night.

The Pirates left for home today and will rest until Saturday before engaging in another tussle with the locals, this time on the Pittsburgh ice.

Last night's game was a rough one, 16 penalties being meted out to the two clubs, including one of major class. Boston carried the attack to Pittsburgh throughout, and it was only spectacular work on the part of Roy Worters, Bucco goalie, that kept the Bruins from scoring. He was forced to stop a total of 51 shots. Winkler, Boston goalie, turned aside some 20 less.

Odie Cleghorn, the Bucco boss, was chased from the ice in the first period after being caught tripping Gainor.

South Hills High Gives Perry Lacing

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER

SOUTH HILLS High School continued its upward trek in Section 2 of the City League when it rather outclassed Perry High School, 34 to 22, on the Tunnelites' floor yesterday afternoon. Opposing a rather hot-headed bunch of youngsters, who ran amuck rather wildly, giving neither thought nor time to team play, Coach Washabaugh's combination showed itself to be an improved outfit, yet one that necessarily will have to be polished up before it can be on a plane with the smooth-working courtmen of Schenley, who, it is assumed, will likely cop the Section 1 honors, Fifth Avenue's victory of last Friday notwithstanding.

Foul shooting was fair for South Hills, and close to poor for Perry, the former netting 8 out of 14 chances and the latter 4 out of 9. Ladley had the best record, with 3 out of 3.

The tall and lanky Dering, center, played an important role for the winners, he accumulating 12 points with six field goals. Stuber and Wilson, who didn't go in until the second quarter was under way, scored best for Perry, each getting

Forbes

He Is 'Agin' Stockholders; They're Now Common Folk.

By B. C. FORBES

WHY does anyone save money? Should we feel bitter against those who save?

If a breadwinner does not save during the years he is able to work, how can he take care of himself when no longer able to work?

THESE questions are prompted by a comment received from a working class reader. The observation was made in this column that it would be deplorable were price-cutting to become so vicious in the automobile industry that no return could be earned on the money invested by a large number of people in automobile securities. The worker writes:

"Poor security holders! My heart aches for them. 'Deplorable' is right. Oh, how why not let them go to work in the shops?"

JUST who are America's stockholders?

A generation ago, yes, 15 years ago, security holders in America were not very numerous and consisted, for the most part, of rich or well-to-do families and widows and orphans who had been left some money. It was estimated before the World War that we had only between one and two million stockholders and not as many as half a million bondholders.

Public utility companies alone today have as many stockholders as all American companies combined had before the war. One company alone, American Telephone, has 425,000 stockholders. The popular estimate now is that we have between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 stockholders and several million bondholders.

IT IS most unusual today for any one individual to own even 1 per cent of a large corporation's stock. Only in a few instances does any person own 5 per cent. As for any one man owning a majority of a big company's shares, it simply is no longer true.

The vast majority of stock owners are families of modest or moderate means. There are only 30,000 persons paying income tax on $50,000 a year up, and the number paying income tax on $10,000 up to $50,000 is only 200,000.

The fact is that there are four times as many owners of securities as there are of income tax payers in the whole of America—this includes incomes of as low as $1,000. The total number of income tax payers for the whole country in 1926 was 4,075,542.

CERTAINLY it is true that the majority of stockholders of the present day belong to the so-called "working classes." I use the term "so-called" because many of the hardest workers I know of are executives and others not looked upon as belonging to the working classes.

And now that so many corporations are making it easy for their employes to become owners of company stock, our army of working class stockholders is multiplying very rapidly.

ALL this being so, isn't it entirely humane to regard as deplorable anything which would injure the reasonable income of our millions of stockholders?

Were all stockholders millionaires, and were there only a few of them, perhaps one's heart would not ache were their dividends to be hurt temporarily.

But the facts, as here shown, are very different.

MOST of us who strive to save do so because we do not want to become dependent on charity when we grow old, nor do we want our wives and children to be left penniless if we can, by toiling hard and living economically, avoid it.

Surely that is a laudable ambition.

Is not the man who doesn't give a single thought to preparing for old age, and who is utterly callous as to what becomes of his family, an utterly selfish and rather despicable fellow?

GRANTED that the wise, the right, the laudable thing to do is to try conscientiously to save how should savings be treated?

The only way savings can produce either dividends or interest is to put them to work, to invest them.

Money earns nothing if hoarded at home, and money would earn just as little were it left lying idle in a bank. The gold, the silver, the bank notes in a bank's vaults do not earn a penny.

Banks earn a return only on funds which they themselves invest or lend to other people to be used.

Broadly speaking, before savings can earn anything they must be invested.

DOES it not become very clear, therefore, that it is not only foolish but inhuman to rejoice and exult when anything happens to destroy the income from savings? Since stockholders and bondholders consist so largely of widows, fatherless children, wage earners and families of moderate means, surely we should feel just as badly when their well-being is hurt as we would feel if the wages or well-being of laborers or artisans or other workers were hurt.

Is this now clear to the writer of the sarcastic comment?

O. K. TRUMBULL STEEL MERGER

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Stockholders of Republic Iron and Steel Company today approved a merger with Trumbull Steel and the proposed changes in capitalization.

The change in capitalization involves the changing of the common stock from shares of $100 par value to no par value and increasing the number of shares from 300,000 to 1,000,000. The terms of consolidation provide for the exchange of one share of Republic common for 5 shares of Trumbull common and 1½ shares of Republic common for each share of Trumbull preferred. It is understood that sufficient deposits of Trumbull stock have been made to make the merger practically certain.

P. R. R. DECLARES 1¾% DIVIDEND

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. It is payable February 29 to stockholders of record February 1.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Allied Packers Profits Contract.

Allied Packers, Inc., announced an operating loss of $2,113,161 for the year ended October 29, 1927, and a decrease in net worth of $3,618,531. The company announces that radical revisions in operations are now being adopted. Frank E. Warton, president of the company, in his report to stockholders says future operations will be concentrated upon five plants, namely, Detroit, Buffalo, Topeka, Wheeling and Chicago. These manufacturing units, he explains, are well located and adjacent to excellent fields of distribution and during five of the last six years have been successfully operated.

New Haven to Issue Bonds.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to issue $11,000,000 40-year first and refunding mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds. Authority was given the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad to issue $7,311,000 prior lien mortgage 4 per cent gold bonds.

Chicago Federal Reserve Boosts Rate.

Washington—Increase of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate from 3½ per cent to 4 per cent, marking the first change of rate policy since last summer, was announced by the Federal Reserve Board. The change was understood to mark the beginning of a movement back toward higher rates over the country. In all likelihood most of the other reserve banks, probably in the west, will follow suit in a short time. In quarters close to the reserve system it was forecast, however, that higher rates will not be made uniform for the 12 banks, as the 3½ per cent rate is at present. Nor is an increase in the New York rate in sight for the time being. Most importance was attached to the bearing of the change on the reserve system program of checking further expansion of the nearly $3,800,000,000 of brokers' loans in the New York securities markets and on the co-operation of the system with foreign central banks.

Studebaker to Speed Up Output.

Studebaker will produce 25 per cent more cars in 1928 than in 1927, according to an announcement by A. R. Erskine, president.

Kansas City Railroad Valuation.

Washington—The Interstate Commerce Commission announced the following final valuations of railroads: Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, $8,144,500; Mississippi Central, $4,871,000; Alabama, Tennessee and Northern, $7,104,783.

Cadillac and La Salle Production.

The production schedule for the Cadillac Motor Car Company has been set at 10,000 Cadillacs and La Salles.

Condition of United States Treasury.

Washington—The daily statement of the United States Treasury shows: Income to date this year, $2,107,511,412.41; income to date last year, $2,113,464,-[illegible]; decrease, $[illegible]; outgo over income this year, $111,817,313.19; income over outgo last year, $17,363,-181.85; customs receipts this month, $24,416,739.17; same period last year, $29,345,420.45; balance general fund today, $119,733,647.37; balance preceding day, $122,945,822.43.

Pacific Oil 1926 Earnings.

Pacific Oil Company has issued its annual report showing net profit after federal taxes, for the year ended December 31, 1926, was $5,941,624, including $1,419,118 received from Standard Oil Company of California.

McKenna Views Our Dollar Standard.

London—The Right Honorable Reginald McKenna, at annual meeting of Midland Bank, Ltd., stated: "The general reversion to the gold standard gives the appearance of a return to prewar conditions in matters of credit and currency, but if we look further into the question we shall find there has been a remarkable change. The development of the central bank policy in the United States has shown that, while gold may be retained as a medium for making international payments, it can be deprived of its functions as an ultimate standard of value."

Thompson Company Profit on Meals.

In 1927 John R. Thompson Company, operating 119 restaurants in 41 cities, served 61,337,767 meals for a total of $14,344,141, or an average price of 23.44 cents per meal. In 1926, the company served 60,976,321 meals at an average price of 23.59 cents a meal. Net profit per meal in 1926 was 2.47 cents, or a return of about 10 per cent on sales. Thompson's restaurants serve meals over the counter to patrons who carry their food to chairs having one arm broad enough to support the dishes.

United States Dairy Products.

Shareholders owning large amounts of United States Dairy Products Corporation first and second preferred stocks have agreed to exchange their holdings for class A common stock on the basis of two shares of class A common for each share of preferred owned. This is the first step in the plan to simplify the capital structure of the corporation. The right of exchange, which expires on February 1, compares with the regular conversion rights of the first and second preferred stocks of 1½ shares of class A common for each share of preferred, which conversion right expires December 1, 1932.

Western Union Gross Declines.

The preliminary report of the Western Union Telegraph Company, covering operations for 1927, show gross revenues are estimated at $134,246,141, off but $2,159,475, compared with the previous record year, while expenses totaling $94,784,491 were $2,187,246 below the 1926 total. Net income of $15,959,515 was shown after taxes, depreciation and interest, equivalent to $15.93 a share on 997,446 shares compared with $15.22 in 1926. Incidentally interest total, giving effect to financing as of December 1, 1926, was shown by the fact that total funded debt interest paid in 1927 was $3,554,321, an increase of $1,128,186 over 1926.

1927 Life Insurance Gain.

Life insurance production by United States legal reserve companies in 1927 totaled at least $16,700,000,000, increase of 1.5 per cent over 1926. This estimate by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents is based upon reports of 44 member companies writing 77 per cent of the total new business and assumes that remaining companies made the same percentage of increase for 1927. Total insurance in force now is more than $87,000,000,000. The report shows that the new business, exclusive of revivals, increases and dividend additions, was 1.1 per cent less than during 1926. This result is due to the falling off of 15.5 per cent in December business.

Hanna Blows Out Stack.

The M. A. Hanna Company has blown out one of its stacks at Buffalo, leaving three active in that district.

Dixie Gas Acquires Acreage.

The Dixie Gas and Utilities Company has acquired approximately 7,000 acres of additional gas lands in the Richland parish field of Louisiana. This added to what the company already owned gives it a total of about 18,000 acres in that field.

To Retire Kansas Power Preferred.

Directors of Kansas City Power and Light have called for redemption on April 1, all of its preferred stock, series A, at $115 a share and accrued dividends. A dividend of $1.75 a share on this stock will be paid April 1 to holders of record March 14.

Bituminous Coal Production Off.

New York—Production of bituminous coal in the United States during the week ended January 21 is estimated at about 10,100,000 net tons by the National Coal Association, a decrease of about three-quarters of a million tons from the output of the week before. Car loading totals on every day last week were considerably lower compared with the week before.

P. R. R. Plans Big Orders.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has ordered 250 standard all-steel 70-foot passenger cars, 100 all-steel 60-foot baggage cars and 30 standard steel combined passenger and baggage cars.

Steel Outlook Favorable.

The Iron Age tomorrow will say: Price advance, heavier production and a further broadening of consumption are salient features of stronger steel market. Following an advance of $1 a ton on plates, shapes and bars, announced last Thursday by the Steel Corporation mills, similar action has been taken by most independents. Since the new prices, $1.85 at Pittsburgh, and proportionately higher quotations at other basing points, are limited to orders taken for delivery during the current quarter, the inference is that another advance is contemplated, with 2 cents, Pittsburgh, as a possible objective on second quarter business.

RALLY FOLLOWS EARLY MARKET REACTION

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The stock market experienced a sharp reaction today as a result of the heavy liquidation inspired by the unexpected increase in the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate. Prices broke 2 to 7 points at the opening, rallied moderately, sagged again before midday and turned upward in the early afternoon when heavy buying developed in the public utilities, several of which advanced to new high records. Trading started off at a terrific pace, but slowed up on the rallies.

The market, having advanced rather steadily for five consecutive days, was in a vulnerable position for selling attacks. Several "pools" which had been operating in the specialties hastily withdrew their support, but others resumed aggressive operations as soon as the first outbreak of selling had spent its force. Gold Dust, for instance, sold down 2 points to 83 and then rallied to a new high record at 95¼. Federal Light and Traction, Consolidated Gas and Laclede Gas also established new high records, the last-named soaring nearly 16 points above last night's closing quotation.

Renewal of call money at 3½ per cent tended to keep liquidation within bounds, although the subsequent calling of about $20,000,000 in bank loans aroused misgivings in some speculative quarters. A series of favorable dividend announcements, including a 3 for 1 split-up in Air Reduction and increases in the regular rates on Mathieson Alkali and Liggett & Meyers issues, together with reports of a further increase in steel mill operations, also had a sustaining influence.

Market observers were widely divided as to the ultimate effect on securities prices of the higher Chicago rate. There was a disposition in many quarters to regard it as aimed primarily as a check on securities speculation, while in others it was looked upon as an indication of increasing commercial demand for funds, and therefore as much bullish as bearish. Easy money, however, has been widely recognized as one of the main props of the recent "bull" market so that any general stiffening of the credit situation naturally arouses apprehension in speculative quarters.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 3 points. Recent selling was continued, probably promoted by the relatively easy showing of Liverpool and some January liquidation, owing to the circulation of a few notices.

Active months sold about 4 to 10 points net lower after the call, but the decline to 18.06c for March and 18.14c for May brought in covering and trade buying which steadied the market. Prices rallied, March selling around 18.23c, and active months generally showing net advances of 9 to 13 points by the end of the first hour.

Transactions in January reflected the final evening up of the interest as trading in that position ended at mid-day.

Reactionary sentiment was considerably in evidence, but the buying was attributed largely to covering by shorts, and the early bulge brought in a little more liquidation. There were setbacks of 5 or 6 points in consequence, the market becoming comparatively quiet later. At midday March was selling around 18.17c and May 18.25, or about 6 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

NEW HIGHS ARE SCORED HERE

Two Pittsburgh stocks scored new high records in Fourth avenue today, May Drug Company, which sold at 24, and Carnegie Metals, which was boosted to 26¾ late in the forenoon. There was a lot of bidding for Carnegie, which zig-zagged to some extent after it opened at yesterday's high of 26. Several 1,000-share lots changed hands.

It is reported that there is a short interest of 8,000 to 10,000 shares in the metal issue.

One of the officers of the company in discussing the concern's future outlook said that while earnings are now running at the rate of $25,000 a month, it is hoped to increase profits to $50,000 a month in the near future. The company's property is situated in Mexico and is producing more gold than anything else. The company has 200,000 shares of the par value of $10 each. Actual profits started a few months ago. The company has a power plant which cost $500,000.

There was not much doing in the miscellaneous list in the early trading. Lone Star Gas continued in demand at former prices. May Drug Company had a good fractional gain. Westinghouse Electric kept pace with prices for the stock in Wall street.

Westinghouse Airbrake sold at a new high price in Fourth avenue, but a higher quotation has been posted in Wall street. Jones & Laughlin preferred was wanted at more than one point advance. Ice preferred lost about four points at 25¾, compared with the last quotable price.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Something of a setback in wheat values resulted early today from weakness of the New York stock market and unexpected declines of wheat quotations at Liverpool. Corn declined with wheat and on account of favorable weather. Starting at ⅛c to ⅜c off, wheat later held near to the initial range.

Corn opened ¼c to ⅜@½c lower and subsequently declined a little more.

Oats were easy.

Provisions likewise trended downward.

Aside from bearish effects of breaks in security prices in Wall street, the wheat market showed itself sensitive to reports of larger shipments of wheat from Argentina and of cheaper Argentine offerings at Liverpool, where quotations were already below parity with Buenos Aires. On the other hand complaints of dry weather over domestic winter wheat sections persisted and it was reported officially that a considerable amount of wheat in western third of Kansas has failed to germinate.

Clear, cold weather in the corn belt, auspicious for promoting the movement of the corn crop, gave a material advantage today at times to bears in the corn market. Meanwhile, corn receipts here continued liberal and also at Kansas City, Omaha and St. Louis. Country offerings of corn, however, were reported in general as light.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

PREFERRED STOCKS FOR INVESTMENT

A YEAR ago in our review and forecast for 1927, we outlined the economic factors underlying the investment market and pointed out their probable effect on the market for investment securities. We expressed the opinion that the proportion of total national income being saved for investment was so large in relation to the demand for new capital that the upward trend in security prices was likely to continue and yields decline accordingly. This has been almost universally the case, and we have witnessed the advance of certain Government obligations to less than a 3% basis, that of the highest grade railroad issues nearly to a 4% basis and commensurate gains by all securities which could qualify as of investment grade.

As a result large numbers of callable bonds have been redeemed and replaced by lower coupon issues, and the same has taken place in preferred stocks. A year ago yields of 5½% and 6½% respectively could be obtained in many representative bonds and preferred stocks of investment grade but today a yield of 5% is becoming difficult to obtain in bonds combining marketability and security and 5½%-6% is about the limit on similar preferred stocks. Preferred issues of the highest grade, such as Atchison, American Car, American Radiator, U. S. Steel, etc., are actually selling at prices to yield less than 5%.

It is possible to increase yield at the sacrifice of possible appreciation by selecting issues selling at or near their callable prices, though this is a matter of individual policy. As a group, the public utilities still appear the most attractive from a yield-security standpoint, if the highest degree of marketability is not a prime consideration.

We have carefully gone over the listed and unlisted security markets in developing a list of investment recommendations which in all but a few cases represent seasoned issues. The list contains—Industrials—Public Utilities—Rails.

A GOOD LOOKING FACE
Will carry you through life safer than wealth. Make and keep yourself as good looking as you can. The world likes and favors the good looking.
Nature intended the face to be attractive, the features perfect and the body free from marks, growths and disease. Modern science makes it unnecessary to go through life diseased or disfigured. Always consult F. C. GEHRS, M. E., skin specialist. Inquiries cordially solicited. (No obligation.) Call or write. Booklet of results upon request. 403-4 Aronson Bldg., 339 Fifth ave. Hours 10 to 5 daily. Mon. & Thur. eve. until 9. Licensed. Phone Atlantic 1104.

The proposals will be delivered unopened by Eric Fisher Wood & Company, Architects to the Secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and will be opened at 10 o'clock a. m., February 18, 1928, by the secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies in the presence of

(a) The Secretary of the Department of Welfare.

(b) The President of the Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania Training School, Morganza, Pennsylvania.

(c) The architects.

Bidders are invited to be present. Bids will be tabulated and an award made as soon thereafter as possible.

GENERAL CONSTRUCTION, PLUMBING, HEATING SYSTEM AND ELECTRIC WORK.

All bids must be made upon prepared forms furnished in duplicate by the architects on and after January 18, 1928.

Proposals containing any additions, erasures, omissions, additions not called for or additional bids of any kind will be rejected as informal, and no bidder will be allowed to withdraw his bid.

Bids will be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of forty-five hundred ($4,500.00) dollars for general construction work, two hundred and fifty ($250.00) dollars for plumbing work, two hundred ($200.00) dollars for heating work, and one hundred and fifty ($150.00) dollars for electric work, drawn to the order of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of Eric Fisher Wood & Company, architects, 251 Oliver avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Deposits in the following amounts:

One hundred ($100.00) dollars on each set general construction plans and specifications.

Fifty ($50.00) dollars on each set of plumbing, heating and electric plans and specifications.

Plans and specifications, and [only one (1) set] will be issued to contractors under the above plan. Should a contractor desire more than one set of plans and specifications the same may be obtained from the architects at cost of reproduction, accompanied by a deposit in the amounts stated above.

Deposits must be made by certified check.

All checks shall be made payable to the order of Eric Fisher Wood & Company.

Receipts for said deposits will be given and the money refunded upon the return of plans and specifications in good condition and without marking within ten (10) days after the date on which bids are opened.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as represented by the Department of Property and Supplies reserve the following rights: (a) To make award on any item or combination of items covering the various branches of the work at price or prices named in any proposal. (b) To reject any or all proposals or to accept any bid or combination of bids or any separate item of the proposal, which may seem advantageous to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. (c) To award this contract to some other than the lowest bidder, time for completion will be given special consideration, or when the material proposed to be used by such high bidder, or his financial and business standing and ability properly and expeditiously to carry out the work hereunder, or the consideration of desired alternates, make his proposal more advantageous to the state. (d) To accept any alternate submitted by the successful bidder at the price stated in such proposal for such alternate. (e) To deduct any separate item mentioned in any proposal at the price therein stated therefor.

THAT RED HEADED BOY WHO THINKS HE'S HERMAN LAMB IS A WONDERFUL SALESMAN. IF HE CATCHES ME IN THE HALL A FEW MORE TIMES THERE'LL BE TWO PEOPLE IN THE WORLD WHO THINK HIS FIRST NAME IS HERMAN.
GEORGE, I TOO THINK THERE'S SOMETHING STRANGE ABOUT THAT MAN.
HE'S THE SAME BUILD AS HERMAN LAMB. AND HE USES THE SAME SORT OF DAFFY ARGUMENTS. ON THE OTHER HAND IF HE PUTS OVER THE IDEA THAT HE'S HERMAN HIMSELF, HE'LL GET THAT BIG INHERITANCE SO - THAT'S A FAKE, I STARTED THAT STORY TO GET HERMAN LAMB BACK HOME.
MY WORD!
IT WAS A FIB BUT I JUST GOT TIRED OF HAVING EVERYONE SO SURE YOU PUSHED THAT MAN INTO THE RIVER. NOW IF THIS MAN WHO DOESN'T LOOK LIKE HERMAN LAMB REALLY IS HIM, THE SITUATION IS WORSE THAN EVER.
MY WORD! WHAT A FINE KETTLE OF FISH!
MRS. LAMB RAISED A TERRIBLE RUMPUS WHEN THAT MAN CAME BACK AND SAID HE WAS HER HUSBAND, BUT I JUST FEEL IN MY BONES THAT SHE RECOGNIZED HIM. IMAGINE! SUCH PEOPLE! WELL, I'LL HAVE A TALK WITH THAT LADY RIGHT NOW.

BUGS BAER Says

GOOD news to learn that associated lawyers are going after the ambulance chaser.

The ambulance chaser is the by-product of an accident. If you are low-bridged by a 1928 Henrietta on the main drag, the ambulance scooter lays down alongside of you and talks things over. If you ain't hurt bad enough to collect damages he arranges to have you run over again.

If you are in a burning building, hollering for ladders, water and fire escapes, he dances around in the street squawking, "we'll sue 'em for criminal negligence."

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

If you are drowning and paging a rope in a very positive alarmed tenor he leans off the wharf and hands you his card.

He is a bad lawyer with a good business. For there are now 30,000,000 automobiles in America running in three speeds—first, second and reckless.

Therefore, many pedestrians are pressed and ironed every day on our busy streets. When the ambulance gong is chiming its unhappy carillon and you are reclining on a Louis XIV stretcher, the hospital counsellor gets on his bicycle and acts as an escort of honor.

He is the first man to reach your bedside. If your arm is fractured he shakes your hand. If your ribs are broken he tells you a funny story. If your ankles are sprained he invites you for a walk to talk things around.

He guarantees to collect $50,000 damage from the proprietor of the peanut stand, he will swear the dog was wearing its muzzle on the wrong end and he will bring six reliable witnesses to prove that your hearing was irrevocably damaged when a tassel fell off of a pink parasol.

There is nothing that the ambulance barrister cannot prove, even if he has to send to another state for witnesses.

And the only way to get rid of this accident webster is to have a fatal accident and make certain that he is in it.

Therefore, we congratulate the independent lawyers on the desire to prune these educated weeds from the garden of law.

The business started when America was young and right-of-way apprentices bent over to catch the post-mortem deposition of a side-swiped cow. The railroads were powerful, but the cow also had friends.

The industry got a setback when it was discovered that lawyers were hiring animal trainers to teach cows to walk the tracks. With the advent of the motor car every street is a grade crossing and every citizen a cow. The ambulance chaser has been gleaning an interest-bearing harvest, but it begins to look as if the pelican must give up a fish or two.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
As a Distributing Center It Is Unrivaled

THE SUN-TELEGRAPH

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Get Behind the Movement to Give Pittsburgh A Town Hall Suitable to Community Needs

GET behind the movement to give Pittsburgh a "Town Hall."

Give the Chamber of Commerce Committee on Town Hall and the more than half a hundred other civic organizations supporting this movement the added strength of your active approval!

PUT PITTSBURGH IN the RANK of CLEVELAND, New York, Denver, Chattanooga, San Francisco, Oakland (Cal.), Kansas City, Memphis, Chicago and other cities which have erected great auditoriums that have proven public assets of inestimable worth.

IT IS proposed that the County Commissioners include in the bond issue coming to a vote in April $6,000,000 for a Town Hall in Pittsburgh. In furtherance of this project a Town Hall dinner is to be held February 6. County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, E. V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern are to be guests of honor. Mayor Charles H. Kline, members of Council, other county, city officials as well as men prominent in the ADVANCEMENT OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY will be present.

Special guests will be William Ganson Rose, of Cleveland, and Lincoln G. Dickey, manager of the magnificent Cleveland Auditorium, a structure of imposing architectural appearance, with a seating capacity of 13,200. This building is suited to almost any conceivable need, from a concert to a political convention. Mr. Rose will deliver an illustrated address showing views not only of the great Cleveland public hall, but the auditoriums of other live communities throughout the country.

SPEAKERS will stress the point that the county-wide community, having its center in Pittsburgh, is about the only district so important by reason of large population, social and civic needs, that can be adequately met only through the possession of a Town Hall, THAT DOES NOT HAVE ONE or which has not voted the money for the erection of one. In the latter category are Philadelphia, with $8,400,000 available; Chicago, with $5,000,000 appropriated to remodel its Fine Arts Building, to be renamed with the ambitious title, "Town Hall of the Nation," and to seat 25,000; Detroit, which has voted $8,000,000, and St. Louis, which is erecting its new Coliseum, having a seating capacity of 15,000.

Pittsburgh has moved with such rapid strides that we scarcely noted the passing of the buildings that, in a way, answered our town hall requirements. The last of these structures was the old Exposition Music Hall, now devoted to the prosaic use of industry. For many, the old Expo Music Hall must contain hallowed memories. Should one enter it in the proper mood its walls would echo the sublime music of great orchestras and bands, directed by such men as Damrosch and Sousa, and from its proscenium arch would again thunder the stirring and stimulating phrases of our Roosevelts and Tafts and other forensic giants. On its stage we would see many notable figures, which, were they to return now, WOULD FIND NO FITTING PLACE in which to appear before an audience of a size attracted by their fame.

STRANGELY, until now there have been few periods in the history of Pittsburgh, when it did not have a meeting place ample for the size of the community. For many years the old Diamond Market House served for things, ranging from dog and poultry shows to activities of higher purpose. On the present building marking its site is a bronze tablet commemorating A GREAT NATIONAL PUBLIC SERVICE performed in the old building, the feeding and entertaining of thousands of Civil War soldiers, going to and returning from the fields of battle.

OUR history tells us of early meetings of citizens of Pittsburgh, then part of Westmoreland county, endeavoring to have the county seat removed here. Then there were the meetings that preceded the partition that set up Allegheny as a separate county. These meetings were held in buildings of rudely hewn logs, BUT THEY SERVED THE COMMUNITY NEEDS. That is the point—adequacy to serving the needs of the public. That is the big need of Allegheny county now—since the Town Hall is much more than merely a city of Pittsburgh project.

AS FOR one of the possible needs, consider that Pittsburgh could not entertain a national convention of either of the big political parties. It had no place in which to house "The Miracle" had there been a demand that that elaborate spectacular play be staged here. In Cleveland it was shown in the Auditorium, which also provides a place for many things Cleveland could not have did it not have this commodious meeting place. These are mentioned as being typical of the things Pittsburgh misses by not having a Town Hall.

The record of Town Halls in other cities shows that many of them are SELF-SUPPORTING and that in those which are not the deficit is held to be MONEY WELL SPENT in behalf of the public.

Available figures show that in Cleveland there was an income of $203,527.67, and expense of $153,168.61, in a typical year; San Francisco, income, $82,000, expense, $56,000; Milwaukee, income, $177,951.98, expense, $155,881.02; Oakland (Cal.) income, $57,830.81, expense, $33,940.53; Kansas City, income, $80,710.91, expense, $61,080.73. In Denver there was a deficit of $23,000.

In all of these and other cities the Town Hall is recognized as being one of the MOST IMPORTANT CIVIC REQUIREMENTS. Pittsburgh feels this need greatly. Let us prepare to remove it. Support the Town Hall committee in such force of numbers that the support cannot be ignored.

Oyster Has No Automobile

Thank Heaven There Need Be No More "Stagnant" Families.

Scientists tell us that evolution gradually changed the face of living nature until the oyster, fastened forever to his rock, was followed by jack rabbits rushing wherever they pleased, the eagle flying in the air, the deer dashing through the forest.

Just how nature worked out the plan of "transportation" on land, sea and in the air for the animals, we don't know. That is for science and fundamentalism to quarrel over.

But we DO know that the difference between an oyster fastened to a rock and a rabbit running through a field is no greater than the difference between a man without an automobile and the man WITH an automobile.

The greatest blessing of a material kind ever conferred upon the human race is the invention of the automobile.

Until the automobile came, millions of families were "stagnant." On foot, or with a slow-plodding "horse and buggy" or "family rockaway," they could go a few miles from home, then back again; that was all.

It is no exaggeration to say that millions upon millions lived and died almost within sight of the front door, because, like the oyster fastened to the rock, they had no means of motion, no transportation.

Then came the automobile, first dear, then gradually growing cheaper, with a style and price to fit every pocketbook. AND WITHIN A FEW YEARS THERE WERE NO MORE "stagnant families."

Various miracles occurred in one lifetime. The telephone put an end to isolation on the farms. Rural free delivery brought the world news. The telegraph had already annihilated delay in communication. The telephone brought human beings into the same room to talk, even though they might be 3,000 miles apart.

Then came the automobile: 22,000,000 of them are running in the United States now, and 10,000,000 more will be running within a few years.

The whole country was suddenly put ON WHEELS. Every man, woman and child in the United States, 115,000,000 of them, could ride in automobiles at the same time if our 22,000,000 cars were full to capacity.

Not a single human being need have a foot on the ground.

That is a wonderful achievement. Able, tireless, resourceful automobile manufacturers have freed the human race from PHYSICAL STAGNATION. And that is almost as important as freeing them from physical slavery.

Don't be an oyster fastened to a rock. Join in the modern procession. If you haven't got an automobile, GET ONE.

There is neither reason nor excuse for being a rock-bound oyster now. Automobiles can be had at any price that the buyer can afford. They can be bought on terms that make payment easy. Possession of an automobile, saving of time, increase of pleasure for the whole family, stimulation of enthusiasm and ambition, should enable any man worth while to pay for the car while he enjoys it.

Don't do what you CANNOT AFFORD.

And for that REASON don't be without an automobile, for you CAN'T AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.

The oyster—poor, dull animal—clings to the rock because nature forces that life upon him. But, dull as he is, if you asked, "Oyster, will you buy an automobile on the installment plan and see the world?" he would say, "Show me the dotted line."

Economy Necessary in Making County Budget

With requests for appropriations totaling $16,967,992.34 before them, the county commissioners are endeavoring to slice them to approximately the $16,350,550.58 appropriated last year, in order that the budget may not require an increase in the tax millage over that of 1927.

This is a laudable purpose and one in which the commissioners will receive the commendation of the public. Slashing $617,441.76 from estimates presents quite a problem, but the commissioners are certain to look askance at any item that appears extravagant, in view of the public demand for any economy that will not affect county administration of business to a damaging extent.

The final result of the commissioners' budget-making will be looked forward to with interest. The people have a right to expect the board to practice strict economy.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

What Leap Year Means.

"Would you mind informing me why we have an extra day every leap year? How will the thirteen-month calendar work out on general principles, affecting holidays, etc.?—L. J. H."

THE day added to every leap year—and this year (1928) is a leap year—is a cumulative time debt which has to be liquidated every fourth year. Our calendar, which upon the whole is an excellent one, is based upon an accommodation between the time required for the earth to make one journey around the sun and the time required for it to make one rotation on its axis. These two intervals are not so exactly proportioned to one another that the shorter (the day) will go an even number of times into the longer (the year). It goes, in fact, about 365¼ times. This is an incommensurability of nature—recalling that between the diameter and the circumference of a circle—which we are unable to avoid, and have to allow for.

It introduces, willy nilly, a fraction in our calculations of time longer than a year. But the bookkeepers of Time are not fond of fractions, and so it has been agreed, by the concession called the calendar, that the quarter of a day which remains over after the year has been divided by the 365 days fully elapsed while the earth is making its annual journey around the sun, shall be set aside for three years in succession, and then paid in, together with the quarter day due on the fourth year, thus squaring the account by making every fourth year, or leap-year, contain 366 full days.

Now, if the number of days in the year were just 365¼, no more or less, the leap year arrangement would be perfection; or at least as near perfection, for human purposes, as is, for instance, the daily time adjustment called "mean time." But, unfortunately, the fraction one-quarter is not exact. Put in the decimal form, and carried out to eight figures, it is 0.24219879 instead of 0.25000000.

Small as is the difference in one year (only 11 minutes 14 seconds), it accumulates to a trifle more than three days in four hundred years. This shows an over payment in the time adjustment by the simple leap year method, and so a finer adjustment has been effected by omitting the payment once in every four hundred years. This is effected by dropping out of the list of leap years, every "century year" (for instance, 1900 was a century year), which is not divisible by 400. This is the form of the calendar as we have it at present. It is known as the Gregorian calendar; the simple leap year calendar of which it is an amendment being called the Julian calendar, from Julius Caesar, who had it adopted in Rome, 45 B. C. The Gregorian calendar dates from the year 1582.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Deserve Respect

DO YOU control yourself to the point where you would rather accept an injustice than fight for your rights?

This is a foolish extreme in control.

It means that you will be imposed upon and shunted aside by those who are more aggressive, as occasion demands.

Every time you fail to defend yourself when you are in the right, you go a step lower in the estimation of the person opposing you.

As a normal human being you have a position to maintain.

When you allow anyone to deny you that right, you are weakened.

Then you become ashamed of your weakness, and if you continue to allow others to impose on you, all self-assertion vanishes.

You represent nothing.

This fact impresses you as well as others and your manhood birthright leaves you.

Stand up like a man, not in an antagonistic way, but with a demand that you be accorded the respect you deserve.

Tales that are Told

Nothing Doing

THERE was a new postmaster at Puddleton, and he was not having a very happy time. Most of the farmers living in the neighborhood were in the habit of calling for their letters, and the unfortunate postmaster found himself besieged by a crowd of burly, bawling men, all demanding letters at the same time.

At last one strode in even more burly than the rest, and shouted:—

"Have you any letters for Mike Howe?"

"For whom?" snapped the perspiring official.

"Mike Howe, I said!" bawled the farmer louder than ever. "Don't you know your job, or can't you talk English? Have you any letters for Mike Howe?"

The postmaster took off his glasses.

"No, I have not," he said. "Neither for your cow nor anyone else's."—London Tit-Bits.

Not so Generous

JONES met Mr. and Mrs. Smith in the park one Sunday morning and, after a few minutes' chat, Mr. Smith said:

"I say, Jones, I noticed in the agony column of a newspaper yesterday that you are offering £20 reward for that miserable dog of yours. What ever has come over you, man? I thought you hated the animal."

Jones took on the air of a knight of old.

"I did it to please the wife," he replied. "The dog was hers, you know."

"Well," chipped in Mrs. Smith delightedly, "I think it was awfully generous of you. Such a reward will be sure to bring him back."

"No, it won't," said Jones in Smith's year; "the dog's dead."—London Answers.

The Ruse That Failed

THE moans and groans which a certain small boy with toothache was giving vent to disturbed the class so much that the teacher decided to send him home.

Five minutes later the sufferer's companion, one Henry Higgs, was seen to hold his jaw and at the same time groan dismally.

"Have you caught it, too?" asked the teacher suspiciously.

"Yes, miss," was the reply.

"Ah, well," was the smiling rejoinder, "school will be over in an hour, and you will be able to go home and keep your friend company."

"He hasn't gone home," said Henry miserably. "He's waiting for me to go and play football."

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Not all the ladies trundled to police stations arrive sobbing, shrieking or swooning. There are some with a brittle arrogance that disturbs even the unruffled calm of the desk captain as well as his hard-boiled lieutenants.

These are the types expensively furred whose wrists dazzle with jeweled bracelets and who reek of expensive perfume. In the underworld they are known as "Ladies of the Mob." They are experienced in police court formalities and know the value of a magnificent bluff. They often laugh at their questioners.

They are not so often criminals as associates of criminals. They are the creatures upon whom crooks after successful coups spend the spoils. They may refuse to be questioned until their lawyer or "mouthpiece," arrives. And they know it will only be a short time until they are "sprung" by a professional bondsman.

These women live rather handsomely and acquire a certain social veneer, but they can lapse into the argot of the crook in a flash. Their tongues have a venomous lash and often they are in league with that "invisible power" that has sent many inquisitive policemen to outlying stations.

They are not consorts of petty criminals. They are the reigning mistresses of the so-called master minds.

They are reputed to have a staunch fidelity until their man is trapped and "sent up the river." Then the affair is ended. After all ladies must live. Once entangled, crooks cannot ditch them for these ladies have information that is a constant danger.

Crook catchers say every leader of a mob invariably has a lady confidant. He has that human quality of not being able to keep a secret entirely. And 90 per cent of those are eventually undone because of this weakness.

A certain man-about-town has a large glass of orange juice brought to his table every morning, but he is a victim of the overwhelming force of habit. He cannot drink it sitting down. He has to stand up in a "Here's how!" attitude.

There is the story of a man toiling painfully along the sidewalk in shoes obviously too small. His face was screwed up in an expression of agony. A friend stopped and inquired why he tortured himself thus. "I know," he moaned, "I should wear No. 9 shoes and these are No. 7's. But my wife ran away with a gigolo, my daughter smokes opium, my son is in jail for bootlegging and I wear these so I can go home in the evening, take them off and be comfortable awhile."

* * *

"Metropolitan," he responded brightly.

It is not depressing news that bootleggers catering to the very rich are worried. Sales have taken a decided slump. A water wagon notion—and wouldn't it be amusing if it became a fad?—has hit those who can pay fancy prices. The stuff is getting too poisonous. Or the drinkers are growing too weak.

* * *

A spy tells me that while many imported perfume businesses are reputable, many more are not. Those not on the level are able to secure alcohol for manufacturing purposes, the most of which is diverted to bootlegging and thus many pseudo-manufacturers are growing to be multimillionaires. "The perfume business," he said, "is the biggest support of the bootleg industry."

Glass Houses

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The press the other day reported that the City of Berlin will build a great public school house made almost entirely of glass.

Although its frame is stiffened by steel and concrete the walls will be thick plate glass.

This is an interesting and significant fact.

Primeval man lived in dark caves. A little later a few men huddled together in lightless huts. Windows were rare in the middle ages.

As civilization has advanced houses have become lighter by the use of glass. Even workshops grow lighter.

When John H. Patterson built his factories at Dayton, O., almost entirely of glass windows, he was ridiculed by the architects who said it could not be done. He did it, however, and those factories are stable and useful and the health of the operatives has been conserved.

A house is necessary to shield us from the inclemency of the weather and to preserve artificial heat. But this should not deprive us of the advantages of sunshine.

Sun is the greatest doctor in the world. Many diseases heretofore held incurable are at least remediable by sunshine. A method of artificial light closely allied to sunlight and capable of being concentrated upon a narrow area is used in some diseases.

There is no doubt that our health would be improved and indirectly our spirits would be helped were there more sunshine constantly in our lives, and the effort to give school children surroundings that are light is commendable.

Of course outdoors is the place to live and outdoor people are the sanest, but in many parts of the country outdoor life is impracticable on account of the weather. It is so in the regions where are situated the great cities, such as London, New York and Berlin, but by making the houses largely of glass this deprivation of sunshine may be somewhat ameliorated.

If we cannot live outdoors all year around at least we can live in houses that admit the sunlight.
